WOES PILING UP FOR NEW DEAL IN 1940 CONGRESS

Political Battles to Mark Session.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—The 1940 political campaign will get under way, full steam ahead, when congress assembles next week, and the session will open with a Pandora's box full of troubles for the Roosevelt administration.

The struggle for political advantage will dominate all issues before the session, according to leaders of all political elements. The political truce invoked by President Roosevelt at the special session which repealed the neutrality act was ended ten days ago when Vice President John N. Garner announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Coalition's Power Shown.

With the Garner supporters and the Republicans joining forces in a common assault on the New Deal, the last session of the 76th congress may be even more disastrous for the administration than the first, which ended in a New Deal rout last Aug. 5.

The coalition of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats demonstrated its power when it scrapped the 4 billion dollar Roosevelt lend-spending program and passed the Hatch act, outlawing "pernicious political activity" on the part of New Deal job holders in behalf of a third term.

One of the first objectives of the coalition will be passage of the Holt resolution, expressing the sense of the senate that a third term for any President would be un-American in tradition and spirit. Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.], author of the anti-third term resolution, copied it verbatim from the La Follette resolution which the Democrats and the so-called "liberals" put over under the Coolidge administration.

Uneasiness Is Apparent.

The administration already has shown its uneasiness by beating strategic retreats all along its lines. Mr. Roosevelt made it clear that there would be no further effort to Wagnerize the country when he announced abandonment of the Wagner multi-billion dollar socialized medicine scheme, in favor of a modest federal hospital program. The President's talk about slashing departmental requests for budget estimates apparently dooms the second 800 million dollar Wagner housing program.

There also are reports in responsible congressional quarters that Mr. Roosevelt even will propose superficial modifications of the Wagner labor relations act, sacrosanct to all New Dealers, in an effort to head off its complete overhauling by congress.

House Quiz to Continue.

All the Republicans and conservative Democrats would be well satisfied to go into the 1940 campaigns with the Wagner act unchanged, because of the political issue it would give them, there is little likelihood that the amendments Mr. Roosevelt will propose, if any, will undermine the opposition. At any rate, the house committee headed by Representative Howard W. Smith [D., Va.], will continue its investigation of the national labor relations board, which has distressed the New Dealers as much as the delving of the Dies committee into communist activities.

The Dies committee also is expected to be extended by an overwhelming vote of the house, and its hearings will continue thru 1940.

Not only the anti-New Deal Democrats but the Republicans plan to make communism a major political issue and take full advantage of the popular revulsion against the soviet assault on Finland.

Red Links to Be Aired.

They will exploit the Dies committee revelations of communist influence in the New Deal, Mr. Roosevelt's recognition of communist Russia, and his efforts, before the announcement of the Nazi-communist alliance, to cooperate with Great Britain, France, and soviet Russia in a united front of "peace and democracy" against Hitler.

The President's foreign policy, especially his attitude toward the European war, will be subjected to a searching examination when the proposed 2½ billion dollar armaments program comes up for debate. This issue will occasion another battle

5 DIE AS TRAIN HITS CAR; CITY'S HOLIDAY TOLL 24

1,400 Crashes Occur; 615 Injured.

Five persons were killed and seven were injured yesterday in two traffic accidents in the Chicago area, bringing the Christmas week-end toll since midnight Friday to 24 deaths. In the same period 615 persons were injured in 1,400 traffic accidents reported in the city. An Associated Press survey showed 353 traffic accident deaths thruout the nation.

Arrow points to scene of Oak Lawn accident.

Two children, their mother, and their grandmother were killed and the father of the family was injured fatally when their automobile was struck by the Wabash railroad passenger train "Blue Banner" at the grade crossing at 95th street and 51st avenue, Oak Lawn.

Car Hurled 40 Feet.

The car, driven by George Clark, 33 years old, of 4313 Towle avenue, Hammond, an oil refinery worker, was westbound in 95th street. Two other automobiles filled with relatives accompanying the Clark family on a holiday visit to the home of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. James De Lasso, 234 North Hale avenue, Villa Park, were just behind Clark's car.

As the automobile reached the tracks, which bisect 95th street at an angle, the train roared thru the crossing. William Prindle, the engineer, said the train was going at a speed of 65 miles an hour. It struck the front of Clark's car and hurled it thru a signal pillar containing red warning lights and bells. The pillar was snapped and the car turned over and over, coming to rest 40 feet away in a prairie.

Clark's wife, Elizabeth, 33, and his mother, Anna, 64, were killed. The children, Jackie, 10, and George Jr., 12, died a few minutes later in Little Company of Mary hospital. Clark, who incurred a skull fracture, died early today in the same hospital.

Unable to Stop Car.

Clark's brother-in-law, Lee R. Moore of Kenosha, Wis., who was driving just behind him, said the signals at the crossing apparently failed to start blinking until Clark was too close to the tracks to stop his car.

Seven persons were injured when four automobiles collided at Crawford avenue and Dempster street in Niles Center. The intersection is guarded by traffic lights.

The injured, all of whom were taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston, are George G. Merley, 48, a salesman living at 5220 Harper avenue; his wife, Dorothy, 46; their daughter, Eva, 15, and their son, Peter, 19; Max J. Adler, 38, and his wife, June, 40, of 6166 Sheridan road; and Walter J. Preston, 43, a radio program producer living at 63 Crescent drive, Glencoe.

Six Injured in One Car.

Merley was driving one car. All the injured except Preston, who was driving another car, were with Merley. The other cars in the collision were driven by C. W. Johnson of 1515 Spencer avenue, Wilmette; and Swen Bryst of 1713 Winnemac avenue.

Johnson told police that he and Bryst, northbound in Crawford avenue, were standing still as the light turned green. Merley, he said, came thru the light, eastbound in Dempster street, and struck Preston's car, which was headed south in Crawford avenue. Merley's car caromed into a field and tipped over. Preston's car, out of control, smashed head-on into the two standing cars containing Johnson and Bryst.

Robert Manning, 22, a store department manager of 215 Woodland road, Lake Bluff, incurred a skull fracture when he was pinned under a car which overturned after it ran off Green Bay road west of North Chicago, snapped a post containing an advertising sign, and ran 200 feet into the North Shore Garden of Memories, a cemetery.

Hugh Klaren, 21, the driver, son of Hubert Klaren, a gardener at 1 Stonegate road, Lake Forest, said he was blinded by lights of an approaching

CALM RETURNS TO PIKE COUNTY AFTER BIG SCARE

Union, Ind., Dec. 25 [Special].—Charles Fears, a farmer who lives a short distance from Union, couldn't believe his eyes last Wednesday afternoon when a strange animal leaped over the fence of his pig pen and disappeared into the woods. Fears decided it was a lion.

Arrow locates area upset by lion scare.

Reports of the animal spread thru western Pike county overnight. The next day school children believed they heard a roar from a woods back of their school. Thursday night a strange animal stampeded Warner Ropp's herd of 20 western steers and they broke down his fence.

Friday afternoon Lossie Hill and his children were milking when the animal appeared in their barn lot and frightened them. County Councilman James Borders heard a strange noise outside his farm home late Friday night and upon investigating got within 40 feet of the animal before his flashlight scared it away.

Today 25 hunters stalked over snow covered Pike county hills in search of the beast. They didn't even find a strange track. Sheriff Cleve Goodman said he believed it was a large, hungry dog which frightened the farmers and raided their barnyards.

Likens London to Ghost City on Yuletide Night

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—This wartime Christmas in England passed off as the bleakest and gloomiest I ever have seen. Blacked out London tonight was like a city of the dead. Only a few restaurants in the fashionable West End were open for wealthy customers. Only one movie theater was open in all London.

King George VI.

The festival will continue tomorrow as Boxing day, on which Christmas boxes are given to postmen. The city's activities will resume on Wednesday after a four day shutdown.

A Traveling Christmas.

Overcast skies contributed somewhat to the Christmas gloom. In some respects it was a traveling Christmas with soldiers on leave filling trains along with thousands of persons going to see children who were removed to the country to escape possible air raids. The reunions of parents and children perhaps were the most joyous events of Christmas.

Because movements of ships were held up, 200 week-end holiday makers from Guernsey, who were due to reach a south coast port Saturday morning, arrived this morning. Outgoing steamer service also was delayed for two days.

A feature of Britain's official Christmas program was a broadcast to the empire by King George VI., who spent the day with his family in his country home at Sandringham. During the broadcast the king said, "A new year is at hand and we cannot tell what it will bring. If it brings the peace for which all men hope, how thankful we shall be. If it brings a renewed struggle it shall find us undaunted."

Many Yule Weddings.

Marriage registrars reported that an unusual number of weddings took place this Christmas season. At the Fulham registrar office yesterday a marriage took place every 15 minutes during the eight hour day.

One fixture that was not canceled by the war in London was the annual Christmas morning swimming race in Hyde Park. It was held despite freezing weather.

On the other hand, the singing of carols in the streets, one of London's traditional Christmas pictures, was omitted yesterday and today because of the blackout. Neither was there any ringing of bells. Some carols were heard over the radio and in a few chapels.

NAZIS, BRITISH RELAX BLOCKADES; LET EACH SIDE EAT DANES' FOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—How the German people were able this Christmas to feast on extra rations of butter despite the British blockade and why the Britishers continue to get their Danish bacon, indispensable to every English breakfast table, despite the German counterblockade offers an interesting story.

It has been revealed that the two nations, who are fighting each other with all their land, sea, and air forces, reached some kind of an agreement enabling each to obtain the two vital foodstuffs.

It would be easy for the German navy and mines to completely cut off the trade between Denmark and Britain. Instead, large amounts of Danish bacon shipped to England went unmolested by the German navy. On the other hand, the British navy could intercept Denmark's overseas fodder imports on which she depends to turn out her dairy products which are as largely exported to Germany. Instead England permits Denmark to import fodder exceeding her own requirements in order to get Danish bacon.

Poland's Ex-President Quits Rumania for Switzerland

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 25.—Ignace Moscicki left Rumania for Switzerland tonight. He recently had been reported seriously ill.

Wolf at the Door; a Boy Rises to the Occasion

White Oak, Okla., Dec. 25 (AP).—When Alvin Pitt, a farmer, came home from town his son, 13 years old, said: "I saw a wolf go in the poultry house and locked the door." Pitt went to investigate and slammed the door shut quickly when the animal lunged at him. "Aw, you don't have to be afraid of him, dad. I tied him up," said the boy.

It Was Almost Yule Truce on Western Front

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Dec. 26, Tuesday (AP).—Machine gun volleys beat off British air attacks on German "vanguard" boats in Heligoland bay Christmas day, the German high command reported, today adding that the German army participated in no fighting on Christmas.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Dec. 26, Tuesday (AP).—The high command's communique today said: "East of hte Moselle river two enemy raids have been repulsed by our fire."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—Christmas day on the western front was quiet—something akin to a truce among the millions of fighting men, who faced each other.

And so in the strongholds along the Siegfried line facing France, in the air force and all antiaircraft centers, on land and sea Christmas was celebrated in small groups in a sort of relay system to enable the men on duty to share what festivities could be arranged under the circumstances.

German Troops Sing.

To judge by messages telephoned from the Rhineland, pill boxes echoed to the singing of old Christmas songs. The soldiers were helped out by civilians when the former were thrown off tune or groped for words in the verses.

The same systematic efforts to make comfortable those whom the war compels to be away from home were noticeable on the "air front." In Bayreuth children of families who were removed from small towns along the Siegfried line to escape air raids were given a Christmas party by Nazi organizations. The number of evacuated families has not been revealed but many of them are quartered in the small towns of the Hartz mountains and in Bayreuth.

In Berlin railroad stations large rooms were decorated with Christmas trees. Coffee houses in Kurfuerstendam, fashionable Berlin avenue, and small coffee houses in the poorer sections of the capital obtained permission to remain open for lonely single men and women. The major enterprises sent their employés home to their families. In most of the hotels kitchens were closed after 8 p. m.

Special Rites for Stranded.

The Nazi organization, Germans Living Abroad, held a special celebration in the town hall of the Friedenhau district of Berlin for persons whom the war had prevented from returning to their homes in foreign lands. The Nazis said "men and women of German blood from the United States joined in these celebrations in their true homeland."

The Nazi Association for Colonies also held a Christmas celebration for the children of Germans living in former colonies. These children are being trained in Germany. According to Nazi leaders the boys and girls saw their first real Christmas tree.

Nazi organizations also prepared a big celebration for the Baltic Germans who have been resettled in Germany and in former Poland.

All's Quiet, Army Reports.

BERLIN, Dec. 25 (AP).—German activity on home and war fronts alike was at a minimum on Christmas day.

Papers did not publish and news services did not operate until 6 p. m. The radio merely repeated yesterday's bulletins and excerpts from the Christmas eve speeches of Col. Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the army, and Rudolf Hess, Adolf Hitler's deputy for party affairs.

"On the western front the day passed quietly," said a communique of the German high command. "Whereas there were no activities for the German air force Dec. 24, British planes flew over the German Bight [Heligoland] in the course of the afternoon."

France Reports Quiet.

PARIS, Dec. 25 (AP).—Quiet approaching a truce characterized the western front on Christmas day. As 25 years ago today, there was little fighting.

The night communique of the French command told only of one enemy patrol raid, which was repulsed.

"An enemy patrol was repulsed by our fire east of the Moselle," it said.

The morning communique said, "nothing to report."

Norway Cancels Army Leaves.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 25 (AP).—The newspaper Social Demokraten reported tonight from Oslo that all leaves had been canceled by the Norwegian army as the result of persistent rumors the German fleet was about to make a North sea expedition.

FINNS INVADE RUSSIA; BOMBS BLAST RAILWAY

Aim to Seize Town Near Leningrad.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 25.—The Finnish army has invaded Russia. The objective of the offense is Petrozavodsk, the first important station north of Leningrad on the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad. The town is on the western shore of Lake Onega and is about 50 miles east of the Finnish-soviet border.

(The official Finnish military communique said that Finnish troops were fighting on Russian soil east of Lieksa, Finland. It was the first official confirmation that the war had reached Russian soil. The area is northeast of Petrozavodsk.)

Finnish troops already have penetrated far into Russian territory, it was learned today. No serious fortified areas in this region have yet been encountered.

Many Divisions Massed.

According to information received by the Finnish general staff Russia has concentrated 15 divisions at various points on the northern part of the Finnish-soviet frontier. The Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, operating under normal conditions, can only supply six divisions with war materials and other supplies.

This railroad already has been rendered ineffective by Finnish bombing squadrons which have destroyed bridges, freight yards and other important points.

Petrozavodsk is a typical Russian provincial town whose houses are constructed chiefly of wood. Military objectives of the town have been the targets of repeated Finnish air raids and great damage has been caused by fires in sub zero weather. Because of the successful bombing of other important points on the railroad, the communications with the Red army in soviet Karelia and on the Kola peninsula [in the Arctic] are reported to have been cut off from Moscow.

Expect Capture of Town.

The capture of Petrozavodsk during the coming week is anticipated by the Finns and if this operation is successful, Finland will have shortened its fighting front with Russia by many miles.

(The Moscow communique yesterday claimed Russian successes in the sector northwest of Petrozavodsk. It was claimed Russian units had routed two battalions of Finns near Jolomantsi (Ilomantsi) and occupied enemy positions at Suomussalmi after a serious Finnish defeat.)

Viipuri Bombed and Shelled.

VIIPURI, Finland, Dec. 25 (AP).—The shelling of this ancient city by distant Russian cannon became intense late tonight after Russian aircraft had delivered a Christmas day bombing of a workers' section.

Two shells began dropping simultaneously at half hour intervals. One shell shook the Knut Posse hotel. Soon afterward, another explosion started a fire in the southeast section of the city.

Authorities cleared the restaurants and dispersed other gatherings.

The only casualties from the earlier aerial bombardment were two women and a girl who were injured.

As the raiders turned away and darkness fell, the long range Russian artillery took up their attack for the second successive night.

Huddle in Bombproof Shelters.

The Christmas day bombing of Viipuri, whose famous castle built in 1293 was the center of the spread of Christianity in the Karelian area, kept most Finns huddled in cold, bombproof shelters.

A dozen homes were destroyed and the only thing that kept casualties low was the fact that much of the population has been removed from the city.

During the day at least 30 Russian planes passed over the city. One was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and it was reported five other Russian planes were downed in central Finland.

Approximately 25 bombs were dropped here, including four or five 200 pound missiles and a number of incendiary bombs.

On one street a 64 year old woman was serving coffeecake to soldiers who had four hours of Christmas leave from the nearby front. A bomb fell nearby and a splinter of wreckage severed her arm at the shoulder.

About three blocks were completely wrecked or damaged by the raids and as night fell they could be seen burning in the darkness. Shrapnel in the workers' district tore holes in many houses.

Aiming at Railroad.

The Russians apparently were aiming at a railroad which runs thru the district but the tracks were untouched.

The Finns made the best they could of an unhappy Christmas but electricity was cut off periodically, telephone service was interrupted, gas was shut off completely and water pressure was reduced.

Bombs from Russian war planes fell on more than half a dozen other Finnish cities. The most serious raids were on Turku, Riihimaki, Porvoo, Kouvola, Tampere and small towns near Helsingfors. Ten large buildings were damaged in four air attacks on Riihimaki.

Red Battleship Shelled.

The official military communique announced that Finnish costal batteries had shelled the 26,000 ton Russian battleship Marat. In describing the sea warfare the communique asserted:

"The battleship Marat was shelled about noon for a short time and at a great distance by our batteries at Koivisto [at the head of the Gulf of Finland on the Karelian isthmus] which at the same time were attacked by an enemy plane.

"As the gulf freezes, activities of torpedo boats and smaller submarines become more difficult and already is impossible in the eastern part of the Gulf of Finland," the communique added.

On the Karelian isthmus, the Finns said a small Russian attack in the Taipale river sector had been repulsed and a tank destroyed. Fighting also was reported on two other sections of the Karelian front.

Another Red army tank was destroyed north of Lake Ladoga in the Loimola sector, the Finnish communique said.

Farther north in central eastern Finland, the communique declared:

"In the Kuhmo sector near the Vaara river our troops have defeated two enemy companies and the remainder of the enemy forces is retreating. We took one tank and two guns."

"On the Suomussalmi sector activity is increasing."

Russians Claim Successes.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25 (AP).—The Leningrad military headquarters reported tonight that Russian reconnoitering [scouting] units had routed two battalions of Finns near Jolomantsi [Ilomantsi] and occupied enemy positions at Suomussalmi after a serious Finnish defeat.

The communique declared that in the action at Jolomantsi the Russians had completely surrounded the Finns, who left many wounded on the Battlefield as they retired. Thirty-five Finns were reported captured.

Suomussalmi, where the Russians said they had overrun the enemy's "fortified positions," is in central eastern Finland, about 20 miles inside the Finnish frontier.

Skirmishes, which the communique said developed into "serious encounters," were reported at several other points on the front.

The successes reported in the communique were the first officially attributed to the Russian land forces in several days.

Day's Developments in Finnish War

The Finnish army command reported yesterday that its troops were fighting on Russian soil, advancing toward the Murmansk railway, the Red army's communications line. Other developments yesterday are indicated.

WAR SACRIFICES TO BE LIGHTENED, FRENCH ARE TOLD

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 25.—Henri Queuille, minister of agriculture and supplies, in a Christmas day interview, promised to ease sacrifices as much as possible.

"I am doing everything I can do," he said, "to avoid being forced to issue rationing cards. But to succeed the public must coöperate and refrain from hoarding coffee, oil, soap, and other products."

The government has given warning against unnecessary wastage which is described in time of war as a crime.

Paul Reynaud, minister of finance, reiterated that the government has taken every precaution against inflation to protect investors and bondholders. The introduction of two budgets, one civil, to be balanced by revenue, and the other military, to be met by loans, were designed to stabilize currency, he said.

Refugee Children Honored.

PARIS, Dec. 25.—This Christmas in France was the fête of the refugees, the evacuees and soldiers on leave. Children exiled from their frontier homes and from the big cities and troops who came home for the holidays were the guests of honor.

The festivities were particularly elaborate and colorful in central and southwestern France where the evacuated people of Alsace-Lorraine have been established. The towns and villages of Perigord and Charente-Inferieure differ from districts near the Rhine.

Christmas is not usually celebrated with parties and Christmas trees in Perigord. It is a religious observance with private family gatherings afterward. But mindful of the traditions of the Christmas celebrations in Alsace, inhabitants of the southern province wanted to give their visitors a Christmas in their own traditions.

Set up Christmas Trees.

The prefect at Perigord and authorities in small hamlets where the refugees are quartered have been preparing these fêtes for weeks. Christmas trees were set up in the largest public building. Alsatian costumes were provided for the children who on Christmas eve sang their native carols in the streets with the local inhabitants joining with their songs.

Toys and gifts were sent from Paris and from many other places so that each refugee child could have a gift.

Children of members of the American Legion in Paris held their annual Christmas party in Pershing hall. After the party toys and candles were taken down from the tree to be packed for shipment to the exiled children of Alsace and Lorraine.

ITALIANS THRONG CHURCHES; PRAY TO ESCAPE WAR

Give Thanks for Having Been Spared So Far.

ROME, Dec. 25.—Italians thronged churches on Christmas eve and early this morning to give thanks that Italy has been spared from the horrors of war and to pray that this danger may be averted in the future Reports from several of Italy's larger cities indicated that the attendance at midnight masses was one of the largest recorded in recent years.

In Rome it was evident that the Christmas spirit of former years was lacking. There was a feeling of uneasiness. The thought uppermost in the minds of the people who packed the churches could be summed up in this anxious query: Will Italy be involved in war?

An elderly woman who was kneeling on the bare marble floor of a church during the midnight mass was heard to say to her small son, "thank the Lord for having kept your daddy away from the war."

No Santa Claus.

There was no Santa Claus in Italy because Italians celebrate the exchange of presents on the Feast day of Epiphany on Jan. 6.

As most Romans had stayed up late last night to listen to mass, streets were empty until very late this morning. But in the afternoon the city showed the usual animation of feast days.

Theaters, movie houses, restaurants, and cafés did a rousing business. But the biggest celebration took place in private homes where Italians marked Christmas day by feasting.

Pope Pius XII. celebrated three masses last night in his private chapel in the presence of members of his family and a few intimate associates. He rose early this morning and worked as usual in his library.

Royal Family Gathers.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena spent the day at Villa Savoia in Rome with members of their family, including the prince and princess of Piedmont. There was a huge Christmas tree in one of the halls built chiefly for the delight of the sovereigns' young nephews and nieces.

Premier Mussolini remained at the Villa Torlonia with his wife and children. Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and his wife were among those who had luncheon with him.

U. S. AID REJECTS GERMAN PLEA TO HALT PRIZE SHIP

COLON, Panama, Dec. 25 (AP).—German Consul Walter Schmidt protested clearance of the German freighter Duesseldorf in charge of a British prize crew, from Panama canal waters today, but Maj. Gen. David Stone, army commander in the Canal Zone, declared she was free to leave. However, the ship remained in Cristobal harbor.

Gen. Stone said Schmidt's protest "has not been entertained. The ship is free to proceed to sea." He said the difficulties arose when a passenger aboard the 4,930-ton Duesseldorf, captured off Chile Dec. 15, suffered a serious illness and demanded to be landed for an operation. Gen. Stone said Gorgas hospital physicians confirmed that he needed an emergency operation, but he refused to undergo the operation in the Canal Zone hospital and demanded to enter Santo Tomas, Panama, hospital.

"I know it was a subterfuge," said Gen. Stone, "but it was a question of humanity. A man dangerously ill did not want to undergo the operation in our hospital. I could not force the operation, so he was released to go to the Panama hospital."

CHARGE BRITISH PRESS GIVES OUT FALSE WAR NEWS

Papers Accuse Each Other of Printing 'Dope.'

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Complaints are pouring in about the kind of war news that the public has been getting in England. Some newspapers are quarreling among themselves about who is the worst offender in publishing what are said to be sensational and cocksure statements on war developments.

The latest quarrel is between the Sunday Pictorial and the Sunday Express. The Pictorial announced it would publish a new feature column to be headed "Truth." The pictorial took a dig at the Express for having predicted last February that no war involving Britain would break out this year.

The Express replied with a list of alleged miscalculations that the Pictorial has made which, it asserted, do not qualify the Pictorial to show other newspapers where they were wrong.

Crusade Against Dope.

Meanwhile the Daily Mirror and the News Chronicle began crusades against unverified "dope" in the war news. The other day the Mirror printed a layout of headlines to show how newspapers had been defrauding the public with over optimistic war news. It admitted having been guilty itself on occasions.

The News-Chronicle attacked the Sunday Graphic for printing in large type alleged details of grave unrest in Germany and in the reich's army, navy, and air force.

"Wishful thinking disguised as good news has a bad effect as soon as events turn such news inside out," the News-Chronicle said.

The newspaper pleaded for the avoidance by the London press of fallacious inferences from gossip which, it said, distorted much of the reporting in the world war.

Propaganda duels between rival German and English radio broadcasters have become a feature of this winter's fighting. The Germans have a broadcaster who speaks daily in the English language. He attacks the less favorable aspects of social and economic conditions in England.

Called "Lord Hawhaw."

One of the radio correspondents of a London paper, whose job is to listen in nightly to all broadcasts, nicknamed the German broadcaster "Lord Hawhaw." The name caught the public's fancy and he is referred to by every one as "Lord Hawhaw."

Ridicule and derision, according to propaganda experts, are effective weapons in breaking down propaganda statements of the enemy. However, there is some risk here because some of the less informed believe that "Lord Hawhaw" is a real person and is English, not German.

Besides "Lord Hawhaw" the radio audience has another who broadcasts in English from Moscow. He has been named "Ogpu Olga," and Olga, too, seems to be materializing into a real person. One paper has started a weekly column to list and refute all statements by "Lord Hawhaw."

N.Y. Yachtsman Vanishes; 'Foreigner' Finds Wallet

New York, Dec. 25 (AP).—Hennen J. Blanton, 46 years old, civil engineer and yachtsman, disappeared Friday night after attending a Christmas party at the Bankers' club, police disclosed tonight. A mysterious telephone call to his wife today led to the questioning of an unidentified woman. The woman told Mrs. Blanton that she was talking for a foreigner who could not speak English and who had found Blanton's wallet. Mrs. Blanton stalled the conversation and notified police. They traced the call, found the woman, and with her tonight were trying to find the "foreigner."

Wife Found Unconscious in Home; Poison Blamed

Mrs. Lucille Ellison, 19 years old, was found unconscious yesterday in her home at 3810 Alta Vista terrace by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Groth, 3711 North Racine avenue, whom they called to invite her to their home for Christmas dinner. Police said she evidently had taken poison. She is in County hospital. Police said she is separated from her husband.

Say "Thank You" with Mrs. Snyders

CONVICT WHOSE TERM IN JOLIET NEARS END FLEES

William Carey, 30 years old, a trusty in the Joliet penitentiary, and chauffeur for Assistant Warden George F. Sehring, fled from the prison in the warden's automobile early today, and Chicago police were notified to be on the lookout for him. He was sentenced to the prison in 1933 for larceny and was scheduled to be released on next April 6.

Sehring entertained some friends in the warden's quarters last night and early today he sent them home in his car, driven by Carey, who was accompanied by Edward Monahan, a prison guard. On their return Monahan left the car at the prison gate and directed Carey to take it to the garage a block away. When the convict did not return a search was started for him and it was found he and the car had disappeared. He was dressed in civilian clothing. His mother, Mrs. Nora Liston, lives at 642 West 61st place and police squads were sent there to watch for him.

CONVICT FLEES JOLIET PRISON; TERM NEAR END

New York, Dec. 25 [Special].—The Anchor liner Cameronia arrived today from Glasgow with 70 passengers and 75,000 cases of Scotch whisky believed by the customs officials to be the biggest lot to arrive here on one ship since the war started.

No information of the approach of the Cameronia was given until she reached quarantine, and customs and immigration officials had to board the ship in the North river after she docked. Six of the seventy passengers were American citizens.

The Cameronia's hull was painted black and her superstructure buff as protection against submarines. Two anti-aircraft guns will be mounted on her soon, it was said. She now carries a 6 inch naval gun.

RUMANIA CALLS ITS CHRISTMAS BEST IN EUROPE

Nation Is Least Disturbed by Others' Wars.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CETATEA-ALBA, Rumania, on the Russian frontier, Dec. 25.—Rumanians today celebrated Christmas more normally than is possible in any other European country. Premier George Tatarescu bespoke the national gratitude for Rumania's present peace while spending part of the Christmas holidays among soldiers guarding the Bessarabian frontier facing Russia.

A sharp frost of the last three days, and a temperature 10 degrees above zero, has made the muddy roads passable for troops for the first time in two months and now increases the danger of attack. Bessarabia is the point which is thought most likely to be attacked from without.

Long a Danger Zone.

The Bessarabians know they are in danger from the Russians—who never have given up their claims to this area between the rivers Prut and Dniester which was seized by the Russians in 1812 and taken back by the Rumanians in 1917—but the Rumanians are far less jittery than outside reports might lead one to believe.

In the area which Tatarescu inspected, every one with money and property is terrified about the prospects of a Russian attack, when and if the Reds dispose of Finland. It is an area where some of the peasants without possessions frequently favor the bolsheviks.

In the area Russian is the main language of the people who are over 40 years of age. Many of them do not speak Rumanian.

But there is no yearning for Russian rule among even the most Russian of the Bessarabians, except for a few of the lowest class. Even those who consider themselves Russian rather than Rumanians feel that they are better off now than they would be under Russian rule.

In contrast with the forbidding air of the neighboring Russian territory, Bessarabia had made earnest preparation for the Christmas holiday.

Christmas trees were plentiful despite the fact that they are frowned on by ultranationalists as an un-Russian tradition.

Troops in Good Spirits.

Bessarabia is full of troops. But so is most of Rumania—because of Europe's unsettled state. Railway stations were full of soldiers in good spirits, for they all had bundles under their arms and broad smiles on their faces, as they travelled home for Christmas.

This is one of the few countries in Europe which still has no restrictions on food consumption, but it is becoming hard to find coffee and a few other imported products. The general cost of living has risen about 15 per cent, still one can get everything.

Bucharest has the most attractive and famous foodstuffs seen outside America and the prices are reasonable by American standards. The average Rumanian peasant is definitely poor by American standards and lives chiefly on cornmeal, but he is used to that and this Christmas he had as much as always.

Parade Child of Bethlehem.

The Rumanians also observed their custom of parading the Child of Bethlehem on Christmas eve.

The children wear fancy dresses and carry a paper box with a light inside to their neighbors' houses, singing Christmas carols and looking for alms of cookies or candy. Tho the custom was known in Russia in the old days and in other countries, it is considered here as of Rumanian origin and the children look forward to it.

As for Christmas day, the Rumanian ideas of eating, even on ordinary days, making American appetites look puny. For Christmas they have fine geese and turkey, both of which are plentiful in this country.

Rumania on Guard

(Story in adjoining column.)

The Rumanian premier yesterday visited the Bessarabian frontier, where the government has concentrated troops facing Russia. Bessarabia was taken from the Russians by the Rumanians in 1917, and the latter are now fearful lest Russia attempt to regain the territory.

CZECH MINISTER QUITS SOVIET; ENDS HOLDOUT AGAINST NAZI SEIZURE

MOSCOW, Dec. [illegible] Zdenek Fierlinger, former Czecho-Slovakian minister, left here for Paris tonight. The fact that no representative of the soviet foreign office was present at his departure was taken as indicating that Russia has abandoned the dismembered Czech republic that she has pledged by a mutual assistance treaty to support against German aggression.

Fierlinger, who had volunteered and served in the czarist armies in the world war against Germany, had been the Czech minister to Moscow for four years. He refused to recognize Germany's annexation of his country and it is believed the soviets' respect for him was the main reason why it also had not recognized the seizure.

Fierlinger, who was Czech minister to Washington for three years, had as Czech foreign minister played a chief rôle in negotiating the Russo-Czech pact. He had been a thorn in Germany's side since the seizure of Czecho-Slovakia and Germany had pestered Russia to withdraw his diplomatic status which he is now relinquishing, apparently by agreement between the former Cech president, Edouard Benes, and the soviet.

GERMANY OUSTS POLES AND JEWS AS FARM BOSSES

Puts Nazis in Charge of Factories, Too.

LODZ, Dec. 25 (AP).—German managers have been placed by the Nazi régime on all farms and factories belonging to Poles and Jews in sections of the former Polish state which have been annexed by Germany, even tho they were not a part of the reich before 1914.

The borders of the annexed sections have not yet been established definitely, but it is apparent they will include Lodz, the Manchester of Poland and famed in the textile industry for its million spindles.

The Nazi political and economic structure is being introduced rapidly here also, yet with less smoothness and promptitude than in the so-called "Ur-Deutsch" regions [the parts of Poland which belonged to the Reich before establishment of the Polish state].

Treatment of Jews Differs.

There is divergence, for instance, as to the treatment of the Jews. It appears to have been left to each local landrat, or county supervisor, to solve this question according to his lights.

In Sierpce, for instance, all Jews were ousted without obtaining permission to take any money or other belongings with them.

In Wloclawek, the Jews must walk the streets with yellow patches on their backs. And they are not permitted to use the sidewalks.

In Lodz, all Poles and Jews, irrespective of age, must give up their seats to German officers in street cars. This order did not meet with the approval of the army, however, so many German officers avoid using street cars in order not to deprive elderly Polish women of their seats.

Work in Three Shifts.

Work in the Lodz textile factories goes on in three shifts under German supervision. There was a large store of 200,000 tons of cotton on hand when Lodz was annexed. It must be mixed with wood fiber and other "ersatz" [substitute] materials to manufacture cloth, chiefly for consumers in the Reich.

The peasants are under no economic pressure. They can bring their produce freely to town, where they obtain fancy prices.

Educated Poles in the German-occupied but not annexed part of Poland are finding the Polish-German dictionary most useful, as Poles may correspond in German only with persons in Germany. Their letters must be handed in unsealed. No mail to any other country is accepted.

Letters in Polish Barred.

Poles in the occupied portion are not permitted always to correspond in Polish with Poles in other parts of the occupied territory. Poles in Warsaw, for instance, may not write in Polish to friends in Cracow or Lublin. Polish cities in the annexed parts of Poland are automatically taboo for Polish correspondence from the occupied parts.

If and when the remnants of what was once a Polish state of 33,000,000 inhabitants are permitted to set up a government of their own under German aegis, that government will hold sway over an emaciated Poland of only 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 inhabitants.

The area probably will include Warsaw province with about 2,800,000 inhabitants; Lublin, with 2,000,000; Kielce, with 2,500,000; Cracow, with 2,000,000; Lemberg [Lwow], with 1,000,000, and the rest, fugitives and persons from the east and west.

The so-called intelligentsia is likely to predominate, as millions of former civil servants from all parts of the former large Polish state are rushing into these areas. Already the province of Kielce and the districts of Jaroslav and Rzeszow are overcrowded.

Foundries of Ostrowiec and munitions factories of Starachowiece and Stalowa Wola remain the most important industries, but alone cannot provide sustenance for Polish workers accustomed to labor in factories.

The soil of Lublin is fertile but, on the whole, the land of what remains of Poland is regarded as poor. There is likely to be an annual shortage of 200,000 tons of grain and 100,000 tons of potatoes.

Frank Governs Area.

The occupied area, from which the new Polish state is to emerge, is now administered by Hans Frank, one of Adolf Hitler's earliest followers, as governor general. Frank has four deputies—for Cracow, Radom, Warsaw, and Lublin respectively.

Things still are in a state of flux in this area. Except for Cracow, the credit institutions are not yet working. The future of Polish currency is uncertain.

Most industries, except those which manufacture munitions for Germany, are idle. Transportation is hopelessly disorganized. Trains are few and overcrowded. They move so slowly and must stop so often for repairs that many Poles have reverted to horseback travel.

All political parties have been dissolved by German order. Cultural life is at a low ebb. Warsaw university has been closed. Its most precious assets, the institute of physical science and the library, were taken to Germany. The library of the Warsaw synagogue, rated one of the richest in Europe, has been sent to Vienna.

May Be New State

(Story in adjoining column.)

The heavy black line circles important cities of Poland which may be included in possible new state to rise under the domination of Germany. This area would include approximately 13,000,000 persons, all that would remain of a Polish state of 33,000,000.

DE VALERA ASKS FOR CONFERENCE TO BRING PEACE

DUBLIN, Ireland, Dec. 25 (AP).—[By Radio.]—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, emphasizing that "Ireland is not a belligerent," suggested in an international broadcast today that a settlement of the war "be sought now in good will rather than wait until exhaustion has forced the requisite dispositions for peace."

"The fact that in the case of a modern great war the victor and the vanquished nations alike have for many years after the war is over to endure privations almost as great as those of the war itself" should urge such a settlement, the American born premier said. He added:

"The conference which comes at the end of a war takes place in an atmosphere which precludes justice. The conference that is needed is a conference of equals where each side's difficulties are appreciated."

De Valera opened his talk with a regret that "circumstances beyond my control" had prevented his accepting President Roosevelt's invitation to visit the United States.

BELIEVE EMPIRES READY TO DOUBLE AIRCRAFT ORDERS

Depend on America in Air Supremacy Race.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25 (AP).—Inquiries from France and Britain have indicated to well informed sources here that these nations contemplate increasing by more than 100 per cent their purchases of American made warplanes. They are arming, these sources believe, for air battles which they consider inevitable.

Contracts for 4,000 or more craft have been given American plants in the last 18 months. These orders are for pursuit planes that have proved their military worth over the German west wall, bombers, attack bombers, and other types.

Tho French and British plants together have stepped up their output to 1,500 or more planes a month, aviation circles believe that they still may trail Germany in productive capacity. The American aviation industry, which officials have estimated can produce 1,000 planes a month without further major expansion, is looked to for the decisive margin.

Consider $40,000,000 Order.

France has increased to 850 an order placed with the Curtiss-Wright corporation for pursuit planes which are reported to have proved at least a match for Germany's famous Messerschmidt fighters. Inquiries hinted that contracts for thousands more of these and other American pursuit planes may be made next year.

The French appear chiefly interested in pursuit, or fighter planes, and the British have concentrated recently on new style attack bombers.

The British air ministry has opened discussions on a possible $40,000,000 order for attack bombers, which are credited with speeds approaching 400 miles an hour. These planes were said to be improved models of 270 attack bombers which the Douglas Aircraft company is filling for France at a cost of about $27,000,000. They are said to approach the performance of the newest American army craft of the type.

Germans Use New Fighters.

As long as the foreign orders do not interfere with prior contracts with the American army and navy, the war and navy departments are not expected to object. Before a plane is released for sale abroad by the joint aeronautical board, army and navy officials must determine that American military secrets are not being revealed and that even more efficient planes are available for the American armed forces.

One effect of the French-British orders is to put American plane designers and manufacturers into competition with German craftsmen.

Reports have come from London and Berlin that Germany is beginning to use against British bombers a new two engine Messerschmidt plane which flies 379 miles an hour. These reports were followed last week by an announcement that new and more powerful motors have been put into the Curtiss-Hawk planes of a type already delivered to France.

ALIEN OFFERS HIS EYE TO BLIND WOMAN IF HE CAN STAY IN U. S.

Wakefield, R. I., Dec. 25 (AP).—Blind for 36 years, Mrs. Gladys Northup, 42, said today an Albanian held by immigration authorities at Boston had offered her one of his eyes provided that she would intervene and save him from deportation.

Mrs. Northup, whose blindness was penetrated by light for the first time when a Christmas tree was lighted in her home last week, said no action had been taken on the offer.

A letter containing the offer, Mrs. Northup said, was signed by a man describing himself as Fein Hayden, 45, a resident of Waterbury, Conn., for 20 years. She quoted its author as saying he was willing to sacrifice an eye to remain in America "which I love more than anything else in the world."

PRISONERS HELD IN ULSTER JAIL AS I.R.A. AIDS RIOT

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Dec. 25 (AP).—Approximately 60 prisoners, all suspected of membership in the outlawed Irish Republican Army, locked their warders in a cell and rioted for five hours in the Londonderry jail today before being subdued. The men, interned for the duration of the war, set fire to bedding, smashed furniture and leaned out of windows to sing Republican songs to crowds in the streets.

RECALL CIO PACT OF TAYLOR, NOW VATICAN ENVOY

Report in '37 Lewis Had Backed Him for a Post.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—The appointment of Myron C. Taylor as President Roosevelt's personal representative, or unofficial ambassador, to the Vatican has recalled published reports in 1937 that Taylor would be rewarded with an ambassadorship because he agreed with John L. Lewis to give the C. I. O. bargaining rights in the United States Steel corporation.

There is no suggestion in well informed political quarters that Mr. Roosevelt decided to establish unofficial diplomatic relations with the Vatican in order to make a place for Mr. Taylor. Nevertheless, the fact that he was selected when the President felt the need of a personal representative at the Vatican tended to confirm the widely circulated reports of 1937, in the opinion of Washington political observers.

Succeeded by Stettinius.

Early in 1937 Taylor agreed to the demands of C. I. O. Dictator Lewis that the steel workers organizing committee be recognized as the collective bargaining representative of its membership among the United State's Steel corporation's employés. In October, 1937, Taylor was succeeded by Edward R. Stettinius Jr. as chairman of the board of the steel corporation.

In March, 1937, there was a published story to the effect that Mrs. Taylor was instrumental in bringing about the recognition of Lewis' C. I. O. union by the steel corporation. According to his story, Mrs. Taylor was dining with her husband at the Mayflower hotel in Washington in December, 1936, when Lewis passed by. She remarked that she would like to meet Lewis and Mr. Taylor went over to him, introduced himself, and then presented Lewis to Mrs. Taylor. Later, it was reported, Lewis dined with the Taylors.

Lewis was close to the New Deal administration. He had raised half a million dollars from his United Mine Workers and another $200,000 thru labor's Nonpartisan league, so-called to help reëlect President Roosevelt in 1936.

Talk He'd Go to Britain.

It was in the summer of 1937—that reports became current that Mr. Taylor was to be rewarded with an ambassadorship, and that Lewis was his political backer at the White House. The post most frequently mentioned was that of ambassador to Great Britain. The late Robert Worth Bingham, then ambassador to the Court of St. James, was in bad health and expected to resign. The reports irked Mr. Taylor, and President Roosevelt felt called upon to deny that any such appointment had been considered.

When Mr. Bingham died in December, 1937, the European situation had become so threatening that Mr. Roosevelt decided to send his No. 1 trouble shooter, Joseph P. Kennedy, to the London post. The reports of an appointment for Mr. Taylor subsided then and were not recalled until his selection on Saturday to represent the President at the Vatican and assist what Mr. Roosevelt called the parallel endeavors of himself and Pope Pius XII. for peace and the alleviation of suffering.

Death Mystery

CLERGYMAN ASKS CLARIFICATION OF TAYLOR'S ROLE

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 25 (AP).—The Rev. Louie D. Newton, prominent Atlanta Baptist clergyman, today made public a letter to President Roosevelt in which he asked the chief executive a series of questions regarding Mr. Roosevelt's appointment of Myron C. Taylor as his personal representative to the Vatican.

Mr. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, wrote that he was seeking fuller understanding of this apparently unique policy and asked:

1. If the salary which Taylor will draw is to be paid by the President personally or by the government?
2. If it is to be paid by the government, has there been an enabling act of the congress authorizing such payment?
3. Is the representative to go to the Vatican as a religious body or as a political entity?
4. If as a religious body, would such an appointment be possible under the constitution?
5. If as a political entity, has the congress recognized the Vatican as such?
6. Can the President make such an appointment without officially representing and involving the people of the United States?

TAVERN AFFRAY CLEW PROBED IN WRITER'S DEATH

Quiz Woman Friend Who Slapped Two.

Police were trying last night to solve the mystery surrounding the death of Clark H. Slover. Slover, an author of works on Hibernian and Saxon literature while a graduate student at the University of Chicago, died in the County hospital Sunday night. He had been found in front of his apartment at 18 North Hoyne avenue early Sunday, unconscious from a skull fracture. Police were unable to determine whether he fell or was assaulted.

Slover was 45 years old. He had been working as a radio script writer for the adult education programs of the Work Projects administration. His wife, Mrs. Gladys Slover of 5530 Cornell avenue, said they had been separated several years.

Detectives Lyons Kelliher and Frank Brady of the Warren avenue police said witnesses agreed on these facts:

Slover had visited several taverns early Sunday with Mrs. Marie A. Fisher, 38 years old, a writer employed on the writers' project of the WPA. She lives with her three children in the apartment above Slover's. Mrs. Fisher and her husband, Ferd, are estranged.

About 2 o'clock Sunday morning, Slover and Mrs. Fisher entered a tavern at 2142 Madison street. He began playing the piano. A stranger offered to buy him a drink if he would play "Silent Night." Mrs. Fisher slapped the stranger and then slapped Bartender Fred Lynn for reproving her. She and Slover left.

A few minutes later, passersby found him at the foot of the eight steps leading to the building in which he lived.

Mrs. Fisher said she walked home about 100 feet ahead of Slover and went into his apartment. Presently she heard voices. Looking out she saw passersby helping Slover.

The police said they learned later that another man had accompanied Slover and Mrs. Fisher to the tavern. They planned to find him.

Hotel Clerk and Bellboy Seize Gunman in Holdup

Nash Taber, clerk, and William Matthews, colored bellboy in the Gracell hotel, 6410 Kenwood avenue, submitted readily enough last night when a gunman held them up and robbed them of $26. But when he tried to force them into an elevator, Taber seized the robber, and Matthews hit him on the head with a lamp. The bandit fired two wild shots. He was turned over to Woodlawn police. He identified himself as Joseph Long, 42 years old, of Hammond, Ind., an ex-convict from the Wisconsin and Indiana state prisons.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

HITLER AND HIS FRIEND JOSEF.

Herr Hitler may sometimes wonder whether he was in his best form as a man of destiny when he decided to take Comrade Stalin on as an ally instead of an enemy. The decision he made is, indeed, open to question if not to reconsideration. Der Fuehrer did have a momentary satisfaction at least in giving Mr. Chamberlain what the prime minister himself called a shock. But empires probably will not be made or lost by episodes which merely cause Mr. Chamberlain to raise his eyebrows in pained surprise.

Just now, with the Red army floundering around the arctic, harried by weather and Finnish soldiers, Mr. Chamberlain may feel that he'd much rather Josef the Red were Hitler's ally than Britain's.

Hitler probably could use Stalin as an enemy to much greater advantage than he has been able to employ him as a friend. Neither the stagnation of the war on the western front nor its severity in Finland is particularly useful to the Nazi chieftain, whose fame rests on achievements and whose prestige, to be invincible, must be fed with successful exploits. A stalemate is not the material of victory, and victory is the essential of dictatorship.

It may be that the present estimate of the soviet military ability is too low. Certainly it is low enough at the present time. Other governments which have treated the people very badly in other times have had enough sense to treat the army very well, but all the reports that come from Finland say that these Russian soldiers have been sent into action with the worst possible defenses against even the weather. The Red divisions have photographed very well in Red square when they paraded in their greatcoats and full equipment, but those fellows haven't appeared in Finland, and the men who have are freezing to death. As the record stands it is one of incompetence showing a breakdown in the communist burocracy as well as in the politically controled military command. Probably the commissar and the secret police are not the best advisers at the elbows of a general and his staff.

Hitler could find two reasons for thinking that he had made a mistake in letting Stalin seize the Baltic states and invade Finland. In turning the communists loose upon a brave people he betrayed his own state philosophy and exposed himself as a big liar. Then, also, he picked a military incompetent for his ally and he must occasionally feel that the failure of the Russians is a reflection upon his own judgment. He now has reason to believe that they would have been no danger to him as enemies and might even have been a great advantage as such. If the performance in Finland is an indication of what the Reds could have done if they had honored their treaty with Poland, Hitler must now reflect that he would have pushed them all over the place any time he wanted to attack anywhere. While this untriumphal stalemate exists on the western front, Herr Hitler might be providing the Nazis with victories on the eastern front, achieved with little loss and vastly important to a ruler who depends upon successful exploits rather painlessly accomplished.

The Nazi dictator's often expressed desire for a fat chunk of Russia might by now have been satisfied. He might have all of Poland and the Russian Ukraine as well. He has always said he wanted that, and instead of getting it he has given Stalin part of Poland and the three Baltic states from which German families long rooted are being withdrawn.

When the Russians rejected the Brest-Litovsk robber treaty the Germans were fighting to the finish on the western front against armies constantly augmented by the addition of the American troops. Nevertheless, the kaiser's regiments marched into Russia as they pleased and were down on the Black sea before Lenin could get another armistice and sign another treaty. Hitler might have eaten his Christmas dinner in Leningrad if he had accepted Red Josef as an enemy instead of taking him into a disgraceful partnership. One victory after another might have cheered the German populace into belief that their Fuehrer actually was unconquerable and that the world was theirs.

It's too late now. Adolf has his Josef and if the Finns get any better and the Russians get any worse it may be Gen. Mannerheim who will be dining in Leningrad.

RACKETEER TACTICS.

Under Florida law a state board is empowered to fix the prices for dry cleaning and laundering. The board had set 75 cents as the price for cleaning and delivering a suit and 65 cents as the price for cash-and-carry service. Judge Trammell in the Circuit court at Miami has just tossed this schedule into the ash can. He denounced it as unreasonably high. It was his judgment that 60 cents for cleaning and delivery and 54 cents for cash-and-carry service were about right.

Three men in the cleaning business went to jail for a month for defying the board's order after the Florida Supreme court had upheld the constitutionality of the act. They have the satisfaction now of knowing they were right all the time. Perhaps that will compensate them in some degree for any humiliation and financial loss they suffered.

These men—A. E. Lichtenstein, S. J. Heiman, and Warren Cash—sacrificed themselves for a principle and deserve great credit for doing so. They were fighting against the spread of legalized racketeering in American business life. All of these price fixing schemes are rackets in the sense that they employ force for purposes of extortion. The Florida board was set up for the purpose of punishing any one in Florida who undertook to cut the cleaning bills of the people of the state. An organized minority in the cleaning business sought to gouge the general public and nearly got away with it.

The Florida cleaning racket is, of course, not a unique phenomenon in American life today. The fixing of milk prices and barbershop prices, to choose two other examples, has precisely the same character. The idea is to benefit the few at the expense of the many. Coercion is always required to maintain prices above the level which the conditions of the market would justify. The cleaning racketeers, the milk racketeers, and all the rest hope to attain their end by threatening business rivals with jail and fines if they lower their prices.

MEAT FOR BOMBERS.

Congressman Ralph E. Church, it may be expected, will carry on his campaign to get the nation's airplane factories out of the air raid danger zone when congress meets. As Mr. Church observes, every important plane and aviation engine plant in the country, with two exceptions, is located either in a seaboard town or within a few minutes' flight of the ocean.

The only form of aerial attack that this country need fear is surprise raids launched from carriers lurking off our coast. The extreme risk involved in such raids would make it necessary that they be confined to the most important objectives. The centers of the airplane industry would form just such objectives, and in their present location they are extremely vulnerable to attack.

It is anticipated that the coming session of congress will see demands from the administration for the expenditure of some hundreds of millions of dollars for military and naval aircraft. If congress should vote appropriations to be spent at the present exposed plants its members will have a hard time defending their action.

If the United States needs more planes than it now has to defend itself, the airplane plants are in a dangerous position and ought in the interests of national defense to be moved inland. If congress believes the plants are not in danger of attack, why buy more planes?

THE SMITHS OF WASHINGTON.

The Mr. Smiths who have gone to Washington are more important in the news than in the films. Congressman Howard W. Smith, Virginia Democrat, is chairman of the house committee investigating Donald Wakefield Smith and Edwin S. Smith of the National Labor Relations board under the chairmanship of Mr. Madden. Mr. Donald Wakefield Smith is no longer with the board. His place was taken by Dr. William M. Leiserson, whose objections to what had been done before he appeared on the scene, and what without his objection probably would continue, had part in starting Congressman Smith on the inquiry into the words and works of the other Smiths and their subordinates.

Whenever a congressional committee undertakes on the square to dig into a New Deal activity it produces a series of revelations of a shocking or scandalous nature. The Sheppard committee did that for the Works Progress administration and brought apologetic pleas of guilty from the administrators who had permitted the political abuse of the people on relief and of the money appropriated for them. The Dies committee disclosed the penetration of the New Deal offices and organizations by the communists and their sympathizers. The Smith committee is now continuing the work of exposure, showing how the National Labor Relations board in administering the Wagner labor act has been in conspiracies with John Lewis' C. I. O. to harass the industries which Lewis sought to bring under his control. Mr. Smith of Virginia is doing a fine job on the other Smiths.

If Mr. Madden and the labor board Smiths want to make an apology for themselves and for their regional directors, trial examiners, and other employés, the best thing they could say would be that they had heard Mr. Lewis declare he had bought a piece of the government and intended to have delivery, and that they had observed how Mme. Perkins of the labor department, Mr. Farley of the postoffice, Mr. Murphy now of the department of justice, and other New Deal high place men had endeavored to give Mr. Lewis everything he wanted, whether they broke the law in giving it to him or not.

This apology would have its force. When Mr. Madden and the Smiths endeavored to turn American industry over to Mr. Lewis they did no more than Mme. Perkins, Mr. Farley, and particularly Mr. Murphy when he was governor of Michigan. The New Deal nearly succeeded in this by promoting a civil war in industrial cities and allowing the revolutionary vanguard to defy the courts, fight the police, and take over properties they needed as bases of operation.

When Mr. Smith of Virginia has completed the work of his committee's investigation and has laid the report before congress, it may then become much safer for the plain Mr. Smiths to go to Washington and get out again still with their personal possessions in their own pockets.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS AT YULETIDE.

26th Dec.—On the Saturday before the Christmas festival did rejoice at the completion of my duties for two days ahead, and also at my recovery from a long and dragging influenza; and did go to my club, ye Tavern, to meet my friends at a wassail bowl. Did partake sparingly, for I have come to some sense in such holiday matters.

On the Sunday, I did rest thru the afternoon, and Lord, how I needed it; and then at nightfall did arrange my gifts to my folks at home, all in gay packages, to be opened on the morrow. Next I fared out along the old north road to see the Christmas trees lighted and to commune with the spirit of the Holy Eve; and did pay a call at the Villa Marley in Wilmette, where there was a goodly gathering of happy people, and did present certain small offerings, such as a flagon of fine Rhenish for the Lady Elsa, and a curious old relic of ye ancient theater in Chicago, fit for nothing but to laugh at, to Sir Robert, as an ornament for the buffet in his basement, where there are many strange things in addition to bottles.

On the Birthday did open my gifts, and think I had done right well, and did feast quietly at home with a small bottle of white wine of Bordeaux, very choice; and saw a few friends, and then to a new play called "The Man Who Came to Dinner." And so to bed, feeling it had been a good Christmas, with more of meditation than of revelry.

Did admire, especially, among my Christmas cards, a water colored drawing by Shandy Gaff, showing the ship Con-Trib at wharf, with the Linemaster checking the holiday cargo, and dozens of contributors in the scene. A work of art, fit for framing.

SUBURBAN KNIGHT ERRANT.

And now, sweet love, the parting hour is nigh;
Forbear to weep, let not one vagrant sigh
Escape thy lips, tho callous Fate decree
That I take leave, my lovely bride, of thee,
To wander forth upon a lonely waste
A wilderness unhallowed and ungraced
By thy dear presence. Yet, let us be strong;
First partings ever have seemed overlong.
Again, farewell! If nothing intervene,
Expect me home, dear, on the five-fifteen.

H. C. B.

Contribution on a Christmas Card.

The ship Con-Trib brings to you, for Christmas, greetings and for 1940 a cargo of glad tidings for the Line. On the dock are gathered many friends. You will know them all, but a note or two of explanation may illumine the scene more brightly.

On the bench, for instance, sit Snowshoe Al and Duke Bakrak, discussing the merits of a bird. Perhaps they are going to get it! Nearby, Flossie, becomingly modest, with eyes like capital O's, side glances at a gent costumed as Diogenes [Incunabulus?]. The solitary gentleman, still reading the Line Book altho it has been out these several weeks, is Evan S. Tonian, bewildered yet at finding himself on the inside cover front and back.

Helene, less romantic than usual, roughs the hair of Shanty Al, who is bargaining for a bird he calls "Roseate Hugh." She thinks such words infringe upon her poetic license.

The patient man on the steps is fishing, obviously, but for what? He knows your weakness, and seeks to make the Line—with a scallop! In the doorway, the Linemaster himself, exultant. The rest of them you'll know. Quizzicuss, for instance, up the mast, catapulting. So that's all, except for the man at the easel, trying to paint the scene. He is getting the hook. It is the contribution to the Line of Shandy Gaff.

A Star in the Northern Gloom.

Best figure of speech of the dying year: Herbert Hoover's reference to Finland's heroic stand. . . . "It is a star illuminating the No Man's Land of civilization."

Macaulay would have been proud of it.

TEST OF TRUE LOVE.

Could I, who so much adore you,
And have walked the way before you—
Could I, somehow, make you know
By the signs that love must show
How to tell the little new love
From the real and lasting true love?

This, remember: true love never Thinks of self. True love will ever
Find its chiefest joy in giving.
This is what makes life worth living.
This is touchstone for the new love:
Is it selfish? It's not true love!

Who Was Dr. Watson's Second Wife?

Were Sherlock Holmes still available as a consultant, it might be that the "Watson Wedding Puzzle" would indeed prove a pretty problem for him to unravel. Witness the curious chronology:

On July 7 or July 8 of 1888 [the exact date depends upon the posting of a letter] Dr. Watson met Miss Mary Morstan. By July 11 they were engaged ["The Sign of the Four"]. Yet, on March 20, 1888, the good Watson explains that he has "seen little of Holmes lately. My marriage had drifted us away from each other" ["Scandal in Bohemia"]. On the other hand, the first week of October, 1887, is described by Watson as "a few weeks before my marriage" ["The Noble Bachelor"].

By March, 1892, the doctor's wife seems to have gone to her reward, for Watson again shares lodgings with Holmes. But, undaunted, Dr. Watson apparently tries again; Holmes himself complains in January, 1903, that "Watson had at that time deserted me for a wife, the only selfish action which I can recall in our association" ["The Blanched Soldier"].

Unfortunately, the second Mrs. Watson will forever be a mystery—as deceptive as the Dundas separation case.

"CATARRH OF THE STOMACH."

EVERY pain in the region of the stomach does not mean that an ulcer is present. Furthermore, should vomiting appear we must not jump to the conclusion that cancer is in the offing. Fortunately the old concept of gastritis [inflammation of the mucous lining] has returned in full force and the term "gastric catarrh"—used by our grandparents—explains a state of affairs that is fairly common.

Just as certainly as the skin may become inflamed due to irritation, so may the inner wall of the food pouch become red, swollen, congested—with tiny points of hemorrhage—giving us the typical picture of a raw, sensitive area. As we can well understand, pain may ensue. If the offending food is stopped and the abuse abated—under a light diet for a few days—recovery usually takes place. Thus we account for the numerous disorders that seem to be located in the first portion of the alimentary tract.

As a rule, routine complaints such as nausea, vomiting, and discomfort will fail to be explained by X-ray studies. The reason is that there is no ulcer—hence no deformity is shown in shadow. Only when it is possible to look within the organ will the true condition be revealed. Islands of deeply infected mucosa—angry red—will be seen. If the condition is permitted to continue for a few weeks a goodly bit of atrophy [wasting] will occur.

It is probably some such situation that is responsible for the loss of power to secrete the normal amount of hydrochloric acid. As we know, many men and women are obliged to take this substance by mouth because their own glands fail to manufacture an adequate quantity. Its existence is necessary for the inauguration of the digestive processes and many signs of anemia are manifested when the output is deficient.

Naturally, the physician must make certain that there is no organic trouble. In fact, the symptoms may so closely resemble those produced by actual craters eroding the membrane that a careful investigation will be necessary. Sensations of fullness, belching, heartburn, and the reappearance of food within the mouth may be significant. But, for the most part, our old friend gastritis will be at fault.

How much a chronic form of irritation has to do with the exhibition of more serious lesions—such as cancer—is not known, altho the opinion of many eminent authorities is that persistent inflammation may give rise to malignant growths. No one of us would think of allowing the epidermis to remain constantly swollen and sore without doing something about it and yet we are prone to mistreat our "bread baskets," just because incapacity does not result immediately.

It is just as essential to prevent gastritis as it is the formation of an ulcer. Each may be equally incapacitating and foods are the first point of attack. Alternating iced and scalding drinks cannot fail to be harmful. The damage that comes from the ingestion of highly flavored, spiced articles of diet is difficult to evaluate. Sometimes we use sauces that are quite too "hot" to hold within the mouth. We pass them on, therefore, from a relatively resistant locality to one that is exceedingly delicate and sensitive.

There is no way in which we can determine how much injury results from swallowing mucus and pus that drips down the back of the throat from infected sinuses. If the hydrochloric acid is normal, however, we may count on the gastric juice to destroy a considerable number of bacteria.

The mastication of edibles probably plays an important rôle, as lumpy material—poorly mixed with saliva—places a severe load upon the digestive organs. Perhaps we may ask ourselves the question: How much appendicitis, how much gall bladder disease is traceable to faulty eating habits or improper foodstuffs? The least we can do is not to overtax or overwork the soft, velvetlike cells which all too often resent insults silently and with what are regarded as minor symptoms.

RELIEF USUALLY TEMPORARY.

P. T. writes:

1. I understand there is a new drug which relieves high blood pressure, bringing it down to normal.

2. Is this a safe thing to do?

REPLY.

1. There are several products for which this claim is made. As a rule the effect is temporary. In the majority of cases the patients themselves hold the key to cure—namely: rest, sane living, avoidance of worry, excitement, fatigue, etc. Moderation in diet, work, and worry is the slogan. More lasting results are reported following the use of tincture of hawthorne berries.

2. Yes, if the systolic level is high and the reduction is not below normal.

TEMPERATURE RISE.

H. C. R. writes: What effect does a daily temperature of 99.5 have on the system as a whole?

REPLY.

This slight rise may have no effect on the body for the time being. If it persists or increases, the cause should be investigated.

RUBBER PANTS.

M. H. writes: Is it harmful for a baby to wear rubber pants all the time?

REPLY.

No, provided they are loose and roomy and are not used as an excuse for failure to change the diapers frequently.

SHE LIKES TO CONTRIBUTE.

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 19.—Because your paper has taken the initiative in the so-called exposé of the "Illinoisans" you may not print this; nevertheless, here is my opinion of "A Contributor" from Carbondale.

If that lady has such an aversion to the "ruthless" methods of the Illinoisans, and it is so "degrading" for her husband to have to make a contribution to a cause which she "repudiates entirely," why does she not insist that her husband quit his state job and secure employment in private industry? I imagine the highway department could get along somehow without his valued services.

Just imagine having a job during the awful depression; being allowed to retain it under a change of political administration, and then she has the audacity to write a letter criticizing the leader of the department which employs her husband and under whom he has received a promotion, as she admits! Had the leaders of the present administration taken literally "to the victor belongs the spoils," her husband would have been out on his ear in 1933 waving his college diploma for a job which, at that time, he could not have begged.

Personally, I would be delighted were my husband's salary of such size that 2 per cent of it would mean a contribution of "$35 to $100 a year," as she mentions. That lady just cannot recognize a fair way of running political campaigns. A VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTOR.

SHIP ALREADY OVERLOADED.

Watertown, Wis., Dec. 20.—I would rather change seats in the middle of a stream than sail another four years with the captain who has already overloaded his large ship, the United States of America, with a crew of rubber stamp yesmen, a million office boys, 12 million stowaways, numerous communistic advisers, and a 42 billion dollar cargo.

The captain being war minded [the smell of war smoke some 3,000 miles away], he now intends to add another 500 million dollar cargo of cannon on his already overburdened ship.

CARL L. WILKOWSKI.

IF SANTA CLAUS COMES BY.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Recently I have read letters from office girls praising their boss. These girls should thank God they have a job. What would I not give to have a position! Christmas will find one very unhappy girl in Chicago—me.

Does Santa Claus ever stop at the Voice of the People corner and ask what he could do in the way of a position? If you see him, Mr. Editor, won't you please give him my name and address so that I can find a job in my 9½ stocking on Christmas morning?

UNEMPLOYED GIRL.

OLD MEN HOLDING JOBS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—After reading of the retirement of city policemen and firemen reaching the age of 63, I wonder why this law does not hold good for other city employés. I know countless men well over the age of 70 who are still holding jobs that belong to younger men. Why do they belong to pension funds if they never intend to take a pension?

E. D.

NEW DEALERS: NO CHANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—What this or any other administration could have done to support of our population left destitute by the '29 crash would have been to encourage what has always taken care of the country—namely, business.

You can't do that by creating a giant voting machine out of pensioners or reliefers; you can't do it by encouraging a union like the C. I. O., which by fomenting minor revolutions [called strikes] breaks down whatever accord employé and employer might reach thru arbitration, and you can't do it by creating an N. L. R. B. inimical to any employer, whatever his position in a dispute might be; finally you cannot do it by taxing a man out of business thru a surplus tax which deprives him of the means to replenish his machinery and countless other things which are required to keep an establishment going.

It takes no peculiar genius to spend money. And if it was the present incumbent's desire to make an unbeatable political machine out of the combined reliefers and C. I. O. he was nearly successful. But the local politicians broke the relief machine's back when they became so open faced about giving relief only to political pets.

So, you New Dealers, no matter how you squirm, how you protest, the country is thru with you and it wouldn't make any difference whom you nominate; you haven't a chance.

There never was a Democratic administration that was a success anyhow.

R. A. G.

FROM AN ENGLISHMAN.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—If my American friends could have been with me during the last week they would have experienced the mixed feelings of happiness and embarrassment!

The evidence of the real friendship of America for this country, as shown in the practical plans of the American Red Cross, has deeply touched us. So many friends have said in substance, "What a fine thing to do—and done without any swank or mushy sentimentality." Particularly, the statement that "if an attack on the civilian population of Britain were to take place the American organization would expand its activities to meet the additional needs," has touched our hearts.

There is no doubt that official appreciation has been expressed, but the average citizen has little opportunity of saying "Thanks, old chap"—yet that is what so many would like to do.

It is impossible for you to really appreciate what it means to find a great neutral country still believing in the eternal verities when we are surrounded with rank hypocrisy and unlimited brutality—when small countries wake each morning with dread, wondering what calamities the day may bring.

Twenty years' personal experience of the kindness of American life is my reason for writing this letter and putting into words what our folks are saying of your folks.

HAROLD WHITEHEAD.

UNDERDOGITIS.

Villa Park, Ill., Dec. 19.—There is a dangerous disease called "underdogitis," to which we are curiously susceptible and which has gotten us into a lot of trouble in the past. At present some of us are delirious from the fever of it.

Let us come to our senses and be the free and independent republic we are supposed to be, with our national interests coming first instead of being a tool for wily, foreign marplots.

Our greatest need at present is a rededication to our Monroe Doctrine and to our internal affairs, and a firm resolve to defeat, at the ballot box, any administration which has the itch to become a foreign agent while on our pay roll.

AMERICAN CITIZEN.

COMPARISON.

River Forest, Ill., Dec. 19.—The disgraceful conduct of the labor board, toward business and employers, now being revealed, never draws an echo from the White House. But when a complaint is made about relief in Ohio, principally by C. I. O. trouble makers, the President grabs the gun and takes a shot at a big Republican—Gov. Bricker. Did that gigantic shield for C. I. O. rioters and communists, the La Follette civil liberties committee, ever complain that it could get no help from government agencies or money with which to hound business? However, for the Dies committee, it is "Can we spare a dime?"

LEAKY ROOF.

Chicago, Dec. 20 [Friend of the People].—Please forward this letter to the building inspection office, to whom I have written before, as I don't know where that is.

A building inspector has been out and promised that the owners of this building would be forced to put a new roof on this building, but nothing has happened yet and this last heavy rain was terrible. It rained all over my flat and is making a wreck of me. If the roof isn't fixed before the snow melts I'm sure the whole ceiling will cave in. All the tenants have complained and were promised a new roof before the leases were signed, but that is all we get—promises. It is also a fire hazard, as the pigeons are nesting in the broken cornices, carrying straw and twigs in, and boys climb up there after midnight and light matches to catch the pigeons to take home with them. I do hope something can be done for us.

A. C.

I have caused an investigation of this complaint and find building is in need of repairs. The owners have been notified to replace rusted cornices on buildings and to repair leaky roof.

If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed as the law directs.

Commissioner of Buildings.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

December 26, 1914.

[151st day of world war; 117th day of the present war.]

LONDON—Because of air raids over Dover and Southend on Sea the streets of London were lit more dimly than on any night since the onset of the war. Thousands witnessed an aerial battle over Southend in which British flyers drove off a German foe.

PARIS—French forces took the woods guarding approaches to Metz and began bombardment of the German forts. Metz, metropolis of Lorraine, was regarded as key to the Rhenish district.

VIENNA—No early peace was looked for by the Austro-Hungarian government. Heavy military preparations were continued thruout the empire.

PETROGRAD—Russian successes were reported from the Warsaw and Cracow fronts. Seven crack battalions of German troops were reported annihilated by the Russians.

WASHINGTON—Members of the diplomatic corps were surprised when they received from Secretary of State Bryan a booklet entitled, "A Message from Bethlehem."

GRACE MOORE BIG HIT IN NATION'S GIFT FROM W-G-N

Broadcast Inaugurates Gala 1940 Series.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Grace Moore, the Tennessee girl whose ability and determination and good luck raised her from a rural church job to a commanding position in the world of opera and movies, last night filled W-G-N's blue and silver audience studio with smiles, good humor, Christmas greetings, and songs. Everything but the smiles reached a far larger audience than the 600 who sat applauding in the studio, for the program was broadcast by W-G-N and the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Assisting Miss Moore on this first of a series of gala holiday broadcasts were Attilio Baggiore, tenor; the W-G-N concert orchestra, and the W-G-N octet. Henry Weber conducted, and John Weigel was master of ceremonies. A group from the station's drama staff presented a short Christmasy interlude. Production was by Lou Jackobson.

Opens with Tosca Aria.

With her first offering, "Vissi d'arte" from Puccini's "Tosca," Miss Moore carried her audience far from the gay holiday world into the supercharged atmosphere of one of the most melodramatic of Italian operas. Touchingly she presented the case of the pretty heroine who had lived only for love and for music and who now found her way beset with the terrors of torture and death.

In the twinkling of an eye the mood then changed. The singer prefaced her performance of "Home Sweet Home" with a few words stressing the good fortune of America, which almost alone among the world's great nations observed Christmas in peace this year with families united in the home. Then she put into the song the moving simplicity and the emotional fervor for which she is famous. The applause that followed was loud and long.

Scores with Movie Hit.

The versatile soprano turned for her next offering to "Ciribiribin," that lilting little tune which she did so engagingly in "One Night of Love," the picture that first carried her name around the world. To conclude the broadcast Miss Moore sang the solo part of Malotte's setting of the Lord's Prayer. Triumphantly she conveyed the exaltation which fills the music at the words, "For Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever."

Mr. Baggiore offered the romance from Thomas' "Mignon" and a song of Spoliansky called "The World Is Mine Tonight." The audience was as delighted with the suavity of the former as with the infectious happiness of the latter.

Mr. Weber and the orchestra presented a Rumanian rhapsody of Enesco brightly and rhythmically, and followed it a little later with Strauss' intoxicating "Wiener Blut." The gypsy dance from "Carmen" and the slow movement from Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony completed the evening's purely instrumental items.

Octet Sings "Silent Night."

Besides assisting Miss Moore, the octet contributed a performance of "Silent Night" to a dramatic interlude based on the story of the song's origin.

Henry Weber on the conductor's stand and Lou Jackobson in the control room coöperated to keep the program moving smoothly. John Weigel quite won his audience by the simplicity of his announcing and by his unforced humor.

The series of gala concerts which began last night is to continue thru the holidays and thru the new year. It is designed to make 1940 the most eventful 12 months in W-G-N's 16 year history. Already scheduled are the appearances of Jan Kiepura, renowned Polish tenor, and his wife, Marta Eggert, Hungarian soprano, Thursday night at 9:30. Allan Jones, movie and light opera tenor, sings New Year's eve.

Opera Fund Benefits.

Because of Miss Moore's eminence in opera, last night's broadcast served not only as a gala Christmas program and the beginning of an important series of broadcasts but also as a means of calling special attention to the efforts of the Chicago City Opera company to raise a fund which will assure the continuance of opera here.

Miss Moore's appearance was made possible by the courtesy of Edsel Ford, who waived a clause in a contract with her which provided that she make no broadcasts until after her appearance on the Ford hour next Sunday night.

Matthew Sopko, 46, a pressman, of 1421 Otto boulevard, Chicago Heights, died in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries incurred Sunday in an automobile collision at 87th street and Cicero avenue, Oak Lawn.

Leonard Zylch, 21 years old, 3321 Adams street, died last night in the Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident. Police said he appeared to be the victim of unfortunate fright. He and his companion, Clyde Waltner, 19, of 3241 Adams street, were pursued nine miles by a police squad early Sunday. The chase ended when their car overturned at Maple and Windsor avenues, Berwyn. Waltner also was injured. Police said they could find no reason for Zylch's and Waltner's efforts to avoid them.

Vincent Grazetich, 10, of 3252 South Wells street, died in St. Anthony's hospital last night from injuries he received on Oct. 21 at Wells and 33d street when he was hit by a car driven by Walter J. Zellers, 1360 Washington boulevard.

Seized with a heart attack, Joseph Johnson, 35 years old, 417 East 67th street, a bus driver, stopped his empty bus in front of 3044 Jackson boulevard last night. Police found him dead in his seat.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 899 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 692 were killed in Chicago, where 22,015 were injured in the same period.

PRESIDENT QUITS YULETIDE PARTY TO HEAR SERMON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25 (AP).—President Roosevelt and his family, interrupting White House Christmas festivities today for a quiet interlude at church, heard a forceful plea for good will.

Ten adults and two children of the Presidential household, still flushed from the fun of exploring stockings at the President's mantlepiece, drove to Covenant-First Presbyterian church for an interdenominational service.

"Not brute force, not selfish hate, but the meek shall inherit the earth," declared the Rev. Dr. Oscar Fisher Blackwelder. "The forces of nature are on the side of the manger child, and the hopes of the nations are there too."

Four Persons Killed, One Injured in Auto Collision

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 25 (AP).—Four persons were killed in an automobile collision on state route 75, 12 miles northeast of Rockford today. The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thoren, each about 70, of Rock City, Ill., J. S. Raymer, 65, of Lena, Ill., and the latter's sister, Miss Ellen Raymer, 77, of Rockford. Don Stocklager of Waynesboro, Pa., driver of the other car, was seriously injured.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT GLADDENS HEART OF ALL CHICAGO

Food and Yule Gifts Bring Cheer to Needy.

The spirit of Christmas was manifest yesterday in Chicago. Thousands of homeless men and women were remembered and thousands of children were made happy. Families were reunited and old acquaintances were renewed.

Between midnight and noon yesterday at least two million Chicagoans worshiped in the city's 2,500 churches. The services took many forms.

The story of Bethlehem was portrayed in pageantry by Chicago's Polish citizens in St. John Cantius church, 825 North Carpenter street. The actors and the carolers and dancers were recruited from Catholic universities, colleges, high schools, choirs, and singing and dancing groups. The pageant will be repeated twice nightly thru New Year's day.

Needy Children Get Toys.

Thru the generosity of John Findley, owner of a store at 3549 South Halsted street, Sergt. John Whitelaw of the Deering police station played Santa to some of the unfortunate children in his district. Findley had some toys left over when he closed his store Christmas eve. He telephoned Sergt. Whitelaw and yesterday morning many children who otherwise might have been forgotten found out first-hand about the spirit of Christmas.

Canon David E. Gibson continued his Christmas tradition of 20 years by inviting 1,200 homeless men to dinner in the Episcopalian Cathedral shelter at 117 North Peoria street. Max A. Glass served a turkey dinner to 300 in his restaurant at 186 North LaSalle street.

A Giver Rejoices.

"It has been a wonderful experience," said Glass as he poured wine for his guests. "I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

More than 500 needy men had Christmas dinner in the Volunteer Rescue Army mission at 1018 Blue Island avenue. Fifty underprivileged boys from Arden Shore health camp were Christmas dinner guests of the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

St. Vincent's orphanage gave a party for 100 boys and girls, many of whom glimpsed their first Christmas tree. Toys were distributed and a dinner was served.

Soldiers Eat Turkey.

The army served 9,000 soldiers with turkey, ham, and all the trimmings. The 5,800 convicts in Stateville and Joliet penitentiaries sat down to a dinner of roast chicken.

A brother and a sister were reunited after a separation of 30 years. Mrs. Clara Marie Hoffman, 1744 Wilmot avenue, visited her brother, William Houske of 4321 Hazel street, in his room in Mercy hospital.

The two were separated in childhood, lived in Chicago all these years, and only last week learned of each other's whereabouts.

Engineer and Fireman Die in Explosion of Boiler

Choctaw, Okla., Dec. 25 (AP).—Two trainmen were killed today by a boiler explosion on a local freight train two miles east of here. The dead are Ollie L. Henderson, engineer, and Walter A. Crowe, fireman, both of Shawnee, Okla.

JERUSALEM YULE RITES JOINED BY MANY AMERICANS

Y.M.C.A. Services Held at Shepherds' Field.

JERUSALEM, Dec. 25 (AP).—The bells of Bethlehem rang out a message of "peace on earth" today, but it was unheard by nations at war.

Unlike previous years, the church bells of the Holy City were not broadcast to the rest of the world because of European hostilities. The echo of the chimes died away within the confines of the city.

There was no snow but a cold wind swept the holly-bedecked homes of thousands who spent the holiday far from their homeland.

Holy Land Is at Peace.

In contrast to a troubled world, the Holy Land was at peace for the first time in three years. Long-standing strife between the Jews and Arabs for the control of Palestine was stilled temporarily.

One theme—peace for war-torn Europe—was on the lips of thousands who made the annual pilgrimage to the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem and knelt at the shrine which marks where the Christ child was born.

Some went to the shores of the Dead Sea while others took trips to the Biblical city of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee.

The attendance was heavy at the St. George's [Anglican] cathedral in the American colony. Worshipers gathered there from government officialdom, British military quarters and American communities.

Rites at Field of Shepherds.

Members of the Young Men's Christian association revived their traditional service suspended for three years due to disturbances, at Tel Boaz, known as the "Field of the Shepherds."

Bonfires were lighted in the fields where the shepherds received their celestial visitation. At the entrance of a cave a group partook of bread and meat prepared in the age-old manner of the shepherds.

With lights crowning the hilltops, they received the glad tidings "To you . . . this day is born of David's line, the Savior who is Christ the Lord."

Today, near noon, when you can't hardly wait, hurry to us and ASK for CHICKEN PIE . . . and expect great things. We'll bring you a deep wide dish covered with a thick brown flaky crust and underneath is a little private ocean of chicken and gravy and there'll be a spoon . . . . . .

MEET THE IMMORTALS!

By CALEB

"HERE, one truly escapes from war-news and routine, and wanders a restorative while in a different world!" The thought came to me during a restful half-hour in our second-floor Art Galleries—and reminded me that I must also pay a special Holiday visit to the Art Institute of Chicago—whose most important painting galleries have been newly decorated to accommodate the $150,000,000 collection of Masterpieces of Italian Art originally loaned to the Golden Gate Exposition by the Royal Italian Government.

For to do that is to meet many of Art's immortals face-to-face . . . represented by the "best of the priceless" examples of their work from the Royal Pitti Gallery and Royal Uffizi Gallery of Florence, as well as from fifteen notable galleries and collections in Venice, Milan, Naples, Rome, Udine, Vicenza and Palermo.

Such a visit is a privilege that needs special emphasis. For, thanks to the energetic action of loyal Italian-Americans, in an appeal to the Italian Government ably seconded by Mayor Kelly, Sen. Scott W. Lucas, Chauncey McCormick, and the Italian Ambassador, the Art Institute was honored as the one museum in the United States where these masterpieces, during their return trip to Italy, might be displayed until January 9, 1940. And since a recently enacted law prohibits their future removal from Italy for whatever purpose, they can never be seen in this country again.

What you will see, remember, is equivalent to what you might see if intelligently directed to the art treasures scattered along a tour of Italy from one end to the other! Treasures, for example, like Raphael's Madonna of the Chair. Botticelli's Birth of Venus, Pollaiuolo's Hercules and Anteus, Titian's Portrait of Pope Paul III. Donatello's Bust of a Young Man. Tiepolo's Council of the Knights of Malta, Verrocchio's David, and Michelangelo's Madonna and Child. . . To view these and other creations of Italian genius in the originals is an experience ordinarily reserved for the art connoisseur and world-traveler alone.

Centuries since, these masters of the glorious Renaissance went the way of all flesh. Yet today the timeless miracles they wrought on canvas and marble are visible under our very eyes—inextinguishable "torches of the spirit" set against their own mediaevally darkened world, that today still challenge the student's emulation, inspire the artist's endeavor, and for all time will continue to ennoble the everyday lives of us who are beauty-lovers. As one of these last, the Art Institute's doors present a special opportunity to you.

MORE DWELLINGS TORN DOWN THAN ERECTED IN CITY

Report Views Ten Year Slump with Alarm.

More dwelling units were razed in the city during the last 10 years than were constructed, according to figures released yesterday by the Metropolitan Housing council. Data compiled by the council also revealed that the assessed value of real estate in the city decreased 58 per cent during that time.

The council figures show that from 1930 to August, 1939, approximately 20,000 housing units were demolished because of obsolescence, while only 10,300 housing units were built by private enterprise. Added to the newly constructed dwelling places are 2,414 units erected by the housing division of the Public Works administration.

Suburban Building More Active.

The report said that while assessed values decreased 58 per cent in the city the decrease for the whole county amounted to only 49 per cent.

"Statistics dealing with residential construction in Chicago reflect an exodus to the suburbs by those whose financial support and civic interest are necessary for the city's progress," it added. "Lower taxes, better zoning administration, more effective liquor control and social conditions apparently have outweighed the advantages of urban life in their judgment."

The council report asserted that the lower assessed real estate valuations are a factor in high taxes in Chicago and a threat of still greater levies.

Shifts Burden to Others.

"As the tax base is narrowed the burden upon remaining property must be increased or new forms of revenue must be obtained by the local governments," it added.

The assessed valuations of property in 1930 were: Real estate, $3,459,088,569; railroads, $216,741,015, and personal property, $840,656,242, or a total of $4,516,485,826. The tax rate for that year was $6.74 for each $100 valuation.

The assessed valuations for 1938 were: Real estate, $1,698,235,204; railroads, $107,325,822, and personal property, $565,365,989, or a total of $2,370,927,015. The tax rate for that year was $9.12.

Members of the council committee on taxation who drafted the report are J. V. O'Neil, Harold Kjellander, Harry Starr, and Carl Buddenbaum. The council is a private organization for the study of housing conditions in the city.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 25.—Senora Salvadora de Somoza, wife of the president, made 1,000 poor children happy today when, with her committee of prominent Nicaraguan women, she distributed Christmas gifts. There were refreshments and the Nicaraguan national guard band played Christmas music.

between the internationalists and the noninterventionists.

Some of the internationalists are talking hysterically about 65,000 and even 80,000 ton battleships, while the noninterventionists insist that the appropriations of 1¾ billion dollars for the army and navy during the current fiscal year, the all peacetime record, should not be exceeded for the next fiscal year.

War Policy to Be Issue.

The war policy issue also will come before the next session in the form of various bills, most of which are based on the industrial mobilization plan of the war and navy departments, to set up a totalitarian dictatorship in wartime.

Altho Mr. Roosevelt has provoked howls of dismay from cabinet and bureau heads by slashing their requests for funds, the national debt and deficit spending will present a major issue in the next session. The President is expected to submit a budget calling for expenditures of about 9½ billion dollars, which would entail an estimated deficit of about 3 billion dollars.

Such a deficit would increase the national debt well beyond the statutory limit of 45 billion dollars, which the budgeted expenditures for the present fiscal year will approach by next June 30.

Coupled with the congressional battle over the national debt and deficit spending will be the issue of new taxes. Mr. Roosevelt has announced that he wants about half a billion dollars a year in new revenue to help finance increased armaments and subsidy payments to the farmers.

The administration's reciprocal trade agreements program will be the subject of one of the hottest fights of the session. The authority to make these trade treaties, without regard to the constitutional requirements that all revenue measures shall originate in the house of representatives and all treaties shall be ratified by the senate, expires next June 12.

In preparation for the 1940 elections, southern senators and representatives will seek again during the next session to amend the social security act in order to force the federal government to pay a larger proportion of the cost of old age assistance.

The antilynching bill, scheduled for consideration in the house on Jan. 8, will be another political headache for the Democratic leadership. Certain to pass the house, as it has many times in the past, this measure will be pushed in the senate by northern Democrats and Republicans striving for the important Negro vote.

Lake Foresters to Take Party with Them on Train

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Lake Foresters who come in town to the Emerson house party on Jan. 27 are going to be partying from the time they leave their homes until they return. For the committee in charge has arranged that two cars will be at West Lake Forest at 7:20 that evening to be picked up by the 7:50 train and brought into the Union station, where the party will be held.

Going home there will be a special train leaving the station at 1:15. This may seem like an early hour to those accustomed to staying much later at parties, but Lake Foresters, unlike city folk, do not like being out late on Saturday nights. Sunday mornings in the country are much too precious and pleasant to be wasted in bed!

Dinner-Dance to Be Held a Basement Cafeteria.

The cars coming in and going out will be observation buffet ones, described by the railroad as of the art moderne kind, so merrymaking can start early and last late. The party itself—a dinner-dance in the basement cafeteria of the station—is to be in costume, but any and everything will come under the head of appropriate costumes.

Among the Lake Forest residents who are planning to come to the party on the special train are the Byron Watson Armours, Durand Smith, the Hugh Johnstons, the Philip Mahers, the Prentice Porters, the Edward B. Smiths, the junior Charles H. Morses, the Adlai Stevensons, and Lloyd A. Laflin. He and Mrs. Laflin have gone to the Champie ranch in Arizona for the holidays but he will return in time for the party.

Jewish Women's Council to Benefit from Ballet.

Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, tonight and tomorrow, will benefit the National Council of Jewish Women. This is the sole money-raising effort of the council, and the entire proceeds will be used to further the organization's philanthropy in the Chicago community. Miss Evelyn Silverstine is general chairman. Some of those who have boxes are Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the Irving Florsheims, Mrs. Maurice Rosenfield, Mrs. Arthur Spiegel, the Maurice L. Rothschilds, the Max Adlers, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Henry Foreman, and the Mitchell Follansbees.

Chicago has more than a casual interest in the ballet, which will be performing in the Auditorium until Jan. 4, for there are five Chicagoans in the group that has pledged support to this company in this country. They are Mrs. Goodspeed, Mrs. John A. Carpenter, Mrs. Bror G. Dahlberg, Chauncey McCormick, and Harold F. McCormick.

Debutante Whirl Sets a Dizzy Pace Today.

The hectic debutante whirl, which really IS hectic, continues today with a tea-dance, a dinner-dance, and a supper-dance. The Paul Butler Skinners are presenting their daughter, Virginia Hughes, from 4 until 7 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club. The Bryan S. Reids will introduce their daughter, Joan, at a dinner-dance at the Casino. Miss Meredith Manning, the Lucius B. Mannings' second daughter, will bow at a ball at the Racquet club.

Miss Margaret Webber, Miss Skinner's cousin, has come from White Plains, N. Y., to be among her assistants. Miss Justine Elster of Springfield, O., who was a classmate of Miss Skinner at the King-Smith studio-school in Washington, D. C., also is here. The other assistants are Chicagoans, except for another school friend, Miss Jean Curran of Evanston, who is planning a hockey party for Miss Skinner on New Year's.

Following the tea the bud and her assistants will go to the Balinese room in the Blackstone for dinner and dancing, and then on to the Manning party. Miss Jacqueline Aagaard, another of Miss Skinner's assistants, will give a cocktail party for her next Saturday afternoon.

Neither of Miss Reid's older sisters will be present at her debut. Miss Reid is a student at Vassar.

Strolling players and an orchestra will play at the Manning party, which will be the first debut supper-dance in the reorganized club.

Debutante Josephine Wallace is to be especial guest at a brunch which Mrs. Walter Straub is giving today.

180 of Lake Forest's Juniors to Go to Assembly.

Tonight will be the night of the Christmas holidays for the young people of preparatory school and first year college age who live in Lake Forest. One hundred eighty of them have been invited to Lake Forest's annual Junior Assembly, a dinner-dance to be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Onwentsia. A few of the young people live in Chicago, but have been invited to be houseguests in Lake Forest over night.

The Dartmouth Alumni Association of Chicago will hold its annual Christmas cocktail party in the ladies' dining room of the University club from 5 to 7 o'clock on Friday. The especial guests will be the members of the ladies' committee,

Among those on the committee are Mrs. John Goodwillie, Mrs. Horton Conrad, Mrs. J. William Embree Jr., and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker.

Vassar Students from Chicago Make Bows

Miss Patricia Austin (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Austin of Glencoe, and Miss Josephine Wallace (right), daughter of Walter F. Wallace of Winnetka, who made their debuts Saturday. Both are sophomores at Vassar college. Miss Austin was presented to society at a tea at her parents' home, and Miss Wallace made her debut at a tea dance at the Indian Hill club. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Nancy Oliver's Engagement Is Told at Party

Friends of the Harry Maynard Olivers who dropped in for egg nog from noon on yesterday heard romantic news. It was the engagement of the Olivers' daughter, Nancy, to Hawley Everhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Everhart of Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver live in Evanston.

Miss Oliver attended Sullins college in Virginia Park, Va., and Lake Forest college, and is an active member of the Gray Ladies. Mr. Everhart is a graduate of Northwestern university and is in business in Chicago. The wedding will take place next summer.

George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, those irrepressibles of comic playwriting, are on the loose again. No matter how staid or phlegmatic your temperament, you may as well relax immediately and take out all your hairpins as soon as the curtain goes up on "The Man Who Came to Dinner," for you will be helpless in the face of its machine gun fire of wisecracking. This newest triumph of Kaufman-Hart pyrotechnics, while predominantly sadistic and aimed at intervals toward the dirty side of the target, is irresistibly and nearly uninterruptedly funny.

The piece places on flamboyant exhibit the portly and phrase-mongering personality of a public figure alleged to be Alexander Woollcott, seen thru the liver-and-spleen colored spectacles of the authors, and realized on the stage in the reduced dimensions of slender Clifton Webb. It is hard to guess how much of the real Woollcott remains after this double transformation. But here, at any rate, with Mr. Webb's adroit connivance, is a hysterical essay in comic portraiture.

The tongue of Sheridan Whiteside [as Mr. Webb is called in the script] drips with venom of a lethal power no poisonous adder could match. His utterances range from pontificial defamations of the entire human race to familiar staples of small-time rebuttal.

An encyclopedic knowledge of the history of criminology spices his observations with references to Charley Ross, Dr. Crippen, and others of similar immortality, and an inexhaustible acquaintance with the great and the celebrated in other walks of life drags every one from Katharine Cornell to the Khedive of Egypt into the conversation.

The whole play is Mr. Webb's, and he takes superb advantage of his possession. With the aid of a remarkable goatee, a variety of nifty smoking jackets, and a kaleidoscopic succession of miscellaneous props, he displays the unerring aim and capital timing of a first rank caricaturist.

The plot, while cleverly contrived for its purpose, is static and arbitrary. The rest of the cast are animated properties, passing in and out of the Ernest W. Stanleys' living room in Mesalia, O., while Mr. Webb sits in a wheel chair nursing the hip he fractured when he slipped on a piece of ice outside the front door, as he came to dinner against his will and better judgment.

It is a merry-mad group milling about the wheel chair, however, and the incidental action is full of complications of heart interest and frustrated young ambition. Excellent individual performances are turned in by Doris Dalton and Barry Sullivan as the chief love interest; H. Dudley Hawley as a pestering, fumbling country doctor with a manuscript of memoirs; Joe Faye as Banjo [a travesty upon Harpo Marx], and Helen Flint and Beverly Carlton as the former co-stars in the sophisticated British comedies written by Carlton.

George White's "Scandals," which opened at the Erlanger theater last night, will be reviewed tomorrow.

Good Morning!

This is the most baby conscious picture you ever saw in your lives.

In it the "Four Daughters" are married, want babies, have babies—and adopt babies. And as for TALK about babies—my DEARS! I DO believe it comprises three-fourths of the dialog.

Which doesn't mean that "Four Wives" isn't interesting. Of course it is. The world loves a lover and a baby equally well. . . .

If you saw "Four Daughters" you will recollect that Priscilla Lane [Ann] married out of pity—and fascination—the brilliant, disillusioned, hopeless young composer, played by John Garfield, and was left widowed. . . . Her real love had belonged to Felix Dietz—whom she weds in this picture—shortly before she is to become the mother of Mickey Borden's child. . . .

Ann is in a sad state of mind—a problem to her family and husband, for she lives in a painful past, and can bring herself to see no sunshine in the present or no hope for the future, until the quiet words of up and coming young Dr. Forrest Jr.—heart's desire of her sister Kay—shake her out of her miserable lethargy, and her husband's gallantry toward herself—and the memory and talents of his predecessor—clear the clouds away from her brain and soul.

The story is, primarily, concerned with Ann, her husband and her doctor—soon to be a brother-in-law, tho the other characters in the story play pleasant accompanying parts beautifully. Every rôle is well taken, but it is Eddie Albert, as the young doc, who wins the laurels, with Jeffrey Lynn running him a close second. Priscilla Lane is adorable.

The story has a tendency toward soppiness—but it is so well presented that you take the picture to your hearts and vote it a winnah.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Holidays in Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 25.—There is one thing to be said for the professional performers: They are never deaf to the appeal of charity, and the holiday week found the most amazing array of events arranged to raise money for those who were less fortunate. A review of the week largely is a review of the generosity of the professional entertainers, topped off the day before Christmas by the appearance of little Shirley Temple and big Nelson Eddy on a radio program that pays a big weekly chunk of money to the distressed members of the profession. There may have been something more appealing than little Shirley and big Nelson singing "Silent Night" as a duet, but if so, these ears haven't heard it.

On Saturday night, at the Beverly Hills hotel, the entire colony turned out for Mrs. Basil Rathbone's annual party for the benefit of the Hollywood guild. You might think that even the elements would be kind to such an affair, but after six months of perfect weather, rain blew in from the ocean early in the morning and maintained a desultory drizzle all day long. The ice skating and the skiing, arranged at an expense of several thousands of dollars, were rained out and the guests forced inside the hotel. Mrs. Rathbone, a nervous wreck as the result of a month of intensive preparation, collapsed on the afternoon of her big affair, and was not on hand to see the hotel swarming with the famous names of pictures at $10 a copy. Immediately after the party had been rained out, the weather turned bright and sunny for an ironic afterpiece.

Joan Crawford, Ann Sheridan, Anita Louise, Ida Lupino, Joan Fontaine, Loretta Young, Irene Dunne, Rosalind Russell, Janet Gaynor, Annabella, the Brewster twins, Frances Robinson, Margaret Sullavan, Dolores Del Rio, Lili Damita, Ann Dvorak, and Patricia Morrison were a few of the eyefuls I distinguished near our table. Miss Crawford, attended by Cesar Romero, was flashing a huge ring that she'd just received as a Christmas present from Franchot Tone and, judging by her excitement at it, he is still head man in the Crawford life. Phyllis Brooks was one of the loveliest selling bar chips, but she was tactful enough not to attempt a sale to Cary Grant and Fay Wray.

Orson Welles pointed his whiskers, setter fashion, at Dolores Del Rio as they unhinged a rhumba. Errol Flynn, Bruce Cabot, Rudy Vallee, Louis Hayward, and Jean Negulesco wandered about proposing holiday toasts. Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce, very embarrassed, at the hat check counter, admitting they had lost their hat checks [some Sherlock Holmes and Watson, huh?]. The Ray Millands, the Groucho Marxes, the Arthur Murrays, the Ernst Lubitsches, the Lewis Milestones, the Jules Steins, the Ralph Blums, the Norman Fosters, the Stroud twins, the George Murphys, Brian Aherne, Dr. Frank Griffin, the Edward G. Robinsons—name almost any Hollywood personage and he or she was there.

Mrs. Edward G. Robinson, directly after the Rathbone charity party, started on a four hour motor trip to Brawley, where the annual party for the Oklahoma migratory workers was being staged by Melvyn Douglas, Pat Killoran, Helen Gahagan, and other volunteers. A year ago, when the committee was hard pressed for funds and lacked toys for thousands of children, I wired to Louis and Dave Marx, at New York City, and they expressed several thousands of toys. This year, with greater hesitation, I wired them again and for the second year, they dispatched 1,500 toys, which was a splendid thing for them to do. We needed a little more help. Dr. Taylor [the Voice of Experience] wanted to know if the committee could use $100; rushed it over by special messenger.

On another front, Hollywood was active in beha'f of the House of Nazareth, which is the local version of "Boystown." In a thrilling 19 hole match at the Lakeside Golf club, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope nosed out a team of newspaper men. Each player put up $25, so Chairman Frank Orsatti secured $100 for the children's Christmas stockings.

In between these manifestations of Hollywood's good will, the colony carried on socially and professionally. At the Charlie Einfelds' cocktail party, preceding the Rathbone affair, Dick Powell, Pat O'Brien, and Lou Little were in a Rose bowl discussion. Previews included "Of Mice and Men," "The Light That Failed," "Raffles," and "Swanee River," with Milestone's "Of Mice and Men" rating huzzahs. After this last preview, Hal Roach tossed a big party which I didn't attend because I was too dogoned tired from the golf match against Hope and Crosby.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. He picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line jumper. In a lonely spot they come upon the pay car of the Golconda mine—all occupants murdered, and three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl, who owns an old hotel and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. At Pat's hotel Leonard sees the girl slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins find her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him. Leonard escapes only to accept a lift from Kent and be turned over to the Mexican police, but Mestres rescues him. They pass the building where Kent had placed Pat and are hailed by the Chinese servant. It is a marijuana den, run by an outlawed doctor and his wife, Anna. Leonard and his companions break into the building just in time to save her. Leonard and Pat set out to find Dillon. Kent and Collins also set out separately on Dillon's trail. Collins finds Dillon and kills him. Kent witnesses the murder. Coming upon Leonard they accuse him of the deed. They tie him up and go on to explore the mine. Pat, who hides till they are gone, comes to his rescue. They bury Dillon. Leonard sends Pat off to register the claim. She meets Papago, who was a friend of her father, and sends him back to help Leonard. But Pat's car is wrecked. Anna regains possession of her. In the mine Kent pushes Collins into a pit.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

ENTOMBED.

Kent picked up the stick of powder and he scrambled up the hillside. He thrust it beneath the edge of the boulder which overhung the hole, and his hand was shaking so badly that he broke the first match; the second one went out. He managed to keep the third alight until the fuse began hissing.

The fuse was 10 feet long. But he had no knowledge of the time it would take for it to burn down to the end. He turned away and raced down the hillside. There was the danger of flying rocks; he must be sure to put plenty of distance between himself and the explosion. And to find shelter. He saw a lump of granite a hundred yards away. He threw himself prone behind it, and he waited.

So it was that Leonard, returning to the lip of the bowl for another survey, found it still empty.

No one in sight. The burros were nosing around for such scanty feed as they could find. The sky overhead was beginning to throb with crimson.

It was possible that those two crooks had finished their business here and were returning by the lower trail to the canyon. And if they reached the bed of the gorge before him, there was a chance that they might escape to Golconda after all. For—he had remembered this—there had been no sign of Kent's car in the canyon. And, if that pair had come out here separately, as there was good reason to believe they might have done, Kent might have parked the sedan out of sight.

There was no time to lose. And, on the other hand, he must make certain. He could not afford to miss them if they were still here. If, for instance, they had gone into the tunnel. He started down the hill with his revolver in his hand.

Kent was crouching behind the rock. It seemed a long time to wait; perhaps the fuse had gone out. Finally he thrust his head up very slowly, ready to duck back at an instant's notice. His jaw dropped, his eyes widened. What he beheld seemed beyond belief.

Leonard was entering the tunnel portal.

Leonard stepped into the tunnel. Ever since he had left the ridge he had been watching carefully. So far as he could see, there was no sign of any one about. The slight hissing of the burning fuse was inaudible. If Kent and Collins had already left and were on their way back to the canyon, he could not afford to waste more than a few minutes hunting them here.

The light outside was growing strong, it flowed into the portal and was dissolved by the blackness within a few yards. The first set of timbers showed plainly, rude stulls hewn from the trunks of pinons which had been dragged from the flanks of the nearest ridge, five miles or so away; but the second set was barely visible in the shadows. He noticed something white between one of the stulls and the granite wall. He lighted a match: The object was Dillon's box of powder. He saw the lengths of steel arranged against the wall, the miner's lamp, the tools, the carbide can, and a canteen.

He knew why they were here as soon as he looked at them, and his face grew hard. For they gave him a message that was more poignant than any written words could have conveyed: Mute evidences of the despair which had made their owner leave them here along with his abandoned hopes.

Leonard picked up the lamp and filled it from the carbide can. There were a few cups of water left in the canteen: He poured a little into the magazine, waited for a moment for the gas to form, lighted a match and cupped his hand before the vent, then he withdrew the hand and brought the match where it had been. A slender jet of flame spurted forth. He went on into the tunnel.

The lamp threw a bright glow, revealing the granite walls on either side, and the occasional timbers which had been set by the miners of bygone days in spots where the ground was shaky. He was walking in the middle of the little island of light. It was surrounded by blackness deeper than the darkness of any night. The only sound was his own footfall. He held the lamp in his left hand, and in the other, his revolver. At times he halted briefly, listening.

He was not afraid of the two men whom he was hunting. The absolute self-confidence which comes with strong purpose was driving him on, he had a sureness of the result, a conviction that he was going to find those two and bring them to justice. But the knowledge that he had no time to lose, that there was a possibility of his having overlooked Kent's car, and that they were perhaps hurrying to it now, kept him keyed up, restless.

He was drawing near the old winze when he saw a faint glow. It seemed to come from the floor of the tunnel and it lost itself before it reached the ceiling. It died away as he was looking at it. He hid his lamp beneath his coat, and as he stood there waiting, he caught the sound of a handful of rubble sliding down the naked rock.

He blew out his lamp and went on, making as little noise as possible, feeling his way along the wall with one hand, holding his revolver ready. The light sprang up again.

It was almost beneath his feet. He saw the black mouth of the winze, it was so close that if he had taken another step, he would have plunged into it. He saw the rock walls and a mass of debris about thirty feet below, it had caved in and blocked the old working where the Mexican miners had been following a stringer which had given promise of leading to the vein. He saw the match flame down there and the face upturned toward his. He said:

"Well, Collins!"

The match went out as he was speaking. The face vanished, but it remained before his mind, there was an ugly bruise on the forehead, a streak of blood upon one cheek, the eyes were wide with fear. He stepped back from the edge and he re-lighted his lamp. He had a feeling of deep satisfaction.

"I've got one of them anyhow," he was thinking. Then the explosion came.

It was not loud in here. It was followed by the rattle of sliding rocks and a dull crash. Leonard knew the sounds, he had listened to too many blasts to mistake their meaning: The detonation came from one or two sticks of powder and it was outside the portal. The other, louder noises spelled an avalanche of dislodged rubble and the crash of a huge chunk of granite as it landed.

He turned and looked around. He was, he estimated, not more than a hundred and fifty feet from the portal: Daylight should show there at this distance. But there was nothing, the blackness was unbroken.

He knew that he was imprisoned in here when he started running.

"Collins is inside," he was telling himself. "Then that must have been Kent."

There was much dust in the air when he reached the blocked portal. He heard the tinkle of small fragments falling thru the cracks around the great rock which imprisoned him. There was not so much as a sliver of light entering the barrier. He turned the lamp upon it: A solid mass of granite, a few handfuls of dust were dripping from the sharp projections on its face. The dry, acrid cloud set him to coughing. He was thinking:

"There must be 20 tons." And then it occurred to him that it would not be many hours before the air in here began to get bad. He directed the lamp toward the tools which Dillon had left between the timbers. He examined the box of powder: There were a dozen sticks, he noted the single jack, the row of steel drills. He remembered the months that he had spent when he was first out of college, working as a miner underground. He had had occasion to be thankful for that elementary education in the fundamentals of his business more than once before, but he had never known the depth of gratitude that he did now. He said aloud: "Can do."

The words brought to him the picture of old Sang, standing with his hands folded before him. And that made him think of Pat. She should be in town by this time. Perhaps she was already driving on toward Nogales. She would file the location slip in the office of the county recorder within a few hours. And she would wait for him to come to her as he had promised.

Relaxation a Vital Factor in Your Program of Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The need of rest in this dizzy merry-go-round we all pursue more or less has become of such importance that one college is establishing a course for it spring term on "how to do nothing," which doesn't mean giving up your job and lying yourself off to Tahiti. It means learning to relax properly. Most of us just think we relax. We take those worries and concerns of ours right to bed with us, or we plan, while supposedly sitting quietly in a chair, every bit of tomorrow's activities, practically using up as much energy in the planning as tomorrow will draw upon.

We are hearing about more and more women, whose social life is strenuous, simply running off to a hiding place where no telephone can reach them and no interruptions can spoil a planned day of rest.

We are not silly enough to suggest such a plan to women in the home, with meals to plan and prepare for children and the countless other duties to perform attendant upon the servantless house. But we still think they could arrange an hour a day, unless the children are very small, when the "do not disturb" sign should hang on the door.

The point is that we are coming to the day when relaxation periods are going to be recognized as important to health and beauty along with minerals and vitamins. We are a jittery world and this world jitteriness is becoming reflected in ordinary people.

The morning after Christmas brings out the clean-up squad which, in many families, consists of mother and what willing or unwilling help she can muster. The house looks as if to a miniature tornado had struck it, what with gift wrappings all over the floor and gifts indiscriminately left on the furniture. Even the Christmas tree has a "morning after" look about it, and the refrigerator is chock full of leftovers.

Leftovers have a way of tasting pretty wonderful one day after Christmas, but seeming pretty hashy after that, and usually they last longer than one day. Sometimes it's a good idea to run in a juicy steak between the position of the Christmas turkey. And it's always a good plan to treat the leftover turkey as if it were an entirely new dish.

Invite a few friends for cold turkey salad, rolls, and coffee in the evening, or serve it at luncheon time. Turkey salad can be made in many ways. This is a basic recipe which may be added to or substracted from to the family's pleasure dictates.

Turkey Salad.
[Serves six.]

2 cups diced turkey meat
1 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives
1 teaspoon minced onion or onion juice
½ teaspoon salt
Mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing to moisten

Combine ingredients lightly and chill. Serve on lettuce, chicory, or watercress, or use mixture to stuff tomatoes or fill a jellied cranberry ring.

Curried Turkey with Mushrooms.
[Serves six to eight.]

1 pound fresh mushrooms
¼ cup butter
2 cups diced turkey meat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 apple, peeled and diced
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 to 1½ teaspoons curry powder
1½ cups top milk or cream

Slice mushrooms into butter and sauté for a minute or two. Add turkey, onion, and apple and let cook until onion and apple begin to look transparent, 10 minutes or so. Remove from heat, add salt, flour, and curry. Stir to blend thoroly. Add cream and cook over low heat until the sauce is thickened. Place over hot water and cook 15 minutes longer to blend flavors. Add more salt if necessary. Serve with hot, boiled rice.

TURKEY PIE.

Slice turkey meat in large pieces. Place in a buttered casserole and pour a can of cream of mushroom soup over the meat. Top with freshly mashed potatoes put thru a pastry bag, or with baking powder biscuits. Bake in a hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Turkey and Asparagus in Sour Cream.
[Serves six.]

2 No. 2 can asparagus, drained
2 cups sliced turkey meat
Salt, pepper
1 cup thick sour cream

Lay drained stalks of asparagus in a layer in a greased, flat baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Cover with sliced turkey. Add seasonings. Pour the sour cream over the top. Buttered crumbs may be added, if desired. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 25 minutes until piping hot and lightly browned.

On the House

When a zero snap comes and a water pipe freezes, the safest procedure is to call a plumber! Thawing frozen water pipes isn't a job for just any handy man." Plumbers have special equipment which enables them to thaw pipes rapidly with safe-to. Blowtorches are risky except in the hands of some one familiar with them.

And if you have some pipes which are susceptible to freezing, there are ways of insulating them by good pipe lagging, or you can relocate them. If you have worn piping around your home, it is a good investment to replace it.

December 26, 1939.

Rather a jittery day for those on the wrong side of the ledger. Those days have all been on the destructive side lately so it is a good thing the 22 year is drawing to a close.

Those entering a seven year next year, as are those born on this date, may look forward to a quiet year. Use it to regain poise and perfect yourself. Analyze your aims and ideals.

HAROLD TEEN—ON THE DAY OF HEARTS

KITTEN, I HAD A GRAND CHRISTMAS—BUT THERE IS ONE PRESENT SANTA DIDN'T BRING ME!
BUT, TRUCK, HONEY—YOU GOT SO MANY LOVELY THINGS—WHAT MORE COULD YOU WANT?
THE DATE OF OUR WEDDING.
WHY, SURELY, DARLIN'—I'LL LET YOU PICK THE DAY—
OKAY, LITTLE LADY! LET'S MAKE IT TONIGHT OR TOMORROW, AT THE LATEST!
WHOA UP THERE, BIG BOY! I HAVEN'T A THING TO WEAR—HOW'S ABOUT VALENTINE'S DAY!

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "Saint Nick"

NOW DO YOU STILL THINK THERE'S NO SANTA CLAUS—OR ARE YOU WILLIN' TO ADMIT YOU WERE WRONG?
GEE! I'LL SAY, THERE'S A SANTY—THOSE BIG KIDS DON'T KNOW EVER'THING!
I KNEW THERE WAS A THANTY CLAUS ALL TH' TIME—
GEE! AREN'T THEY SWELL? IT'S SURE BEEN A REAL CHRISTMAS FOR THEM—
YES—AND FOR ALL OF US—BUT WHO COULD HAVE DONE IT, ANNIE?
WHO SENT TH' TOYS AND CANDY AND TURKEY AND BIG CHRISTMAS BASKET AND ALL TH' OTHER GIFTS? IS THAT WHAT YOU MEAN?
ALL THAT, YES—BUT ALSO THE FINE DOCTORS AND NURSES AND A BIG ROLL OF MONEY TUCKED INTO THE GIFT FOR TALLY—
GEE! HOW SHOULD I KNOW? BUT WHOEVER IT WAS SURE HAS AN AWFUL KIND HEART, DON'TCHA THINK SO?
MORE THAN THAT, ANNIE—ANYONE WHO'D DO SUCH A THING COMES PRETTY NEAR TO BEING A SAINT. I THINK—

New Version of Two-Piece

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKETS AND SKIRT.

The twosome idea is prevalent in the fashion scheme of things this season. A duet of patterns presented today assists you in creating some of the loveliest two-piece costumes you've seen or had in years. The blouse design makes at least three versions, which may be varied and dressed up or down to suit your tastes. The skirt is a simple flared model which may be made in either street or daytime length.

Silks, woolens, metal fabrics and prints are good mediums. The sketches give you some ideas to follow.

Style No. 3137 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material for long-sleeved jacket; 1⅛ yards for short-sleeved jacket; 1⅞ yards for short-sleeved bolero and sash; 1⅝ yards for long-sleeved bolero with collar.

Style No. 3106 is designed for 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, and 34 inches waist measurement. Size 28 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material for daytime length.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Flaw Searcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bering, who were at the world première of Gone with the Wind in Atlanta, brought back the story of a native Atlantan's attempt to find flaws in the production. A veteran judge, he was skeptical of Hollywood's ability to produce an authentic picture of the south. He watched the unreeling with eagle eye; found two flaws:

Scarlett speaks of her mother as "mummy." No such word as "mummy" was known in the south in those days, he said. In the scene where Scarlett returns to her wrecked home after Sherman's raiders have passed thru the region, the only things she finds to eat on the place are radishes in the garden. Sherman's march occurred in September and there are no radishes growing in Atlanta gardens in September. They might have been turnips.

God Bless America Note.

Sentiment isn't usually associated with banks, but the other day the Choral club of the First National bank sang a concert of Yuletide music on the bank floor with hundreds of persons peering over the two balconies that form the two and one-half story well. The climax of the concert was the singing of God Bless America with the audience joining in.

Caramel Tone Is Featured Color for Resort Costumes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The new fashion colors troop south to be tried, tested, and approved as the significant hints of what to expect next spring and summer. Rather surprisingly, red and green head the list. This combination comes in prints, in costumes accessories with suits, in woolens, and for dress parade as well as sportswear.

Dinner dresses, especially dashing in this clear strong contrast, feature soft clinging silks with exotic designs. They are appealing after weeks of less exuberant colors.

A new color that is equally smart under fur coats as it will be under strong summer sunshine is called caramel. It's another contrast shade of deep clear strength, with lots of red in it, not a pale beige.

Clinging silk crêpe daytime dresses are ready for sugar white or caramel accessories if you're headed south or to slide under mink, brown caracul, or sheared Lecver jackets and coats here at home. The sugar white is one of the most unusual shades for the more subtle accent duty with black coats of either fur or cloth. Thin wools in this caramel color are as smartly simple in outline as the silk dresses, with some two piece effects in thin wool ideal for the owner of a short fur jacket.

Resort clothes collections are featuring stunning simply tailored dresses with discreetly short and snappily flared skirts. Eyelet linen in sugar white is used for some picture book dinner and dance dresses, all cut with figure revealing streamlines, usually beltless and with wide flaring skirts.

More sophisticated dinner clothes combine this new clinging suede-like jersey in three unusual pastel colors. One heartbreaker has a café au lait dress, a citron green bolero jacket, and a third trim accent of raspberry. A very smart daytime dress is made of white jersey. A simple dress with a very wide flared skirt, a bolero jacket and a belt of the printed jersey in bold colored wide checked jersey.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: In a rubber game a slam contract was bid and made, but the bidding caused some comment. I [North] felt that I had bid very extravagantly and felt sorry for my wife [South] when West, who foolishly had doubled, showed me her cards. This was the hand:

"South, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.

♣ Q 6

"Our bidding went:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
1 spade	Pass[1]	3 spades[2]	Pass
5 spades[3]	Pass	6 spades[4]	Pass
Pass	D'ble[5]	Pass	Pass
Pass

"Referring to the above numbered bids:

"[1] Should West have bid two hearts?

"[2]] Was this jump justified?

"[3] Since a conventional four no trump bid was impossible, was this the proper way to indicate added strength?

"[4] Is there any excuse for going to the slam?

"[5] What was the correct contract, or how should the slam be reached?

"The play: West opened the diamond jack, which was won by the ace. The club queen was played and held. The club six then was taken with the ace. The club jack was played and ruffed, then the low diamond was led to the queen. The club ten was ruffed by East with the ten spot and overruffed with the jack by South. Now a trump was led to the ace and the diamond king was cashed. West refused to ruff, but then a trump was led, throwing her on lead with the king, and she now was forced to lead away from her heart tenace.

"Question 6: Was there any better opening lead?

"Question 7: Could the contract be defeated?—R. S., Chicago."

Answering the questions in order:
[1] No, West should not have bid two hearts. The pass was correct.
[2] This jump was not justified, and the fact that it was made was directly responsible for North-South's reaching a slam that should not have been bid. The slam required a very fortunate lay of cards inasmuch as there were potentially three, or possibly four, tricks off the hand—namely, one spade trick [at least], one heart trick, and one club. North should have raised only to two spades. If South could take no action over this, the presumption was that there was no future in the hand.

[3] After the very strong bidding from North, South was well justified in jumping to five spades. She had passed originally with the technical requirements of an opening bid and was correct to announce this fact.

[4] No. See answer to question two.

[5] The correct contract was four spades and should have been reached as follows:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

[6] The best opening lead, I think, was the spade king.

[7] The contract could not have been defeated on any opening lead. All declarer had to do was strip the clubs and diamonds from the West hand and force a heart lead from West.

Parents Should Give Nature and Time a Chance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

You don't think you're superhuman?

You don't believe you're omniscient and omnipotent?

I'm sure you don't, and yet—sometimes you act as if you did.

What I have in mind is this:

As we see our baby grow into the small child, and then into the big boy or girl, and at last into adolescence, we are constantly confronted by behavior that troubles us; behavior, the importance of which we frequently exaggerate, believing it may spell disaster for our child. And so we try at once to check or change it. We act as if we thought it was entirely within our power to remodel our child and make him perfect.

But all this is not within our power. You have much power, but there are also factors that have a power of their own. Among them are heredity, certain powerful natural impulses, and circumstances over which you have not always complete control. So you can't be all-knowing and all-powerful. But there's a lot you can be.

You can be intelligent, loving, thoughtful. You can recognize behavior, which is a phase, and not take it too hard. You can do your best and then have faith that your child will work out of much that you consider not quite up to your adult idea of perfection. For children do work out of so many things.

Here is a thought for the new year just ahead.

"Building Truth" is a new booklet obtainable on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 25 (AP).—The Boston Bruins scored their 13th consecutive victory over the Chicago Blackhawks, 6 to 3, before a holiday crowd of 10,000 spectators in the Boston Garden tonight. Coupled with the New York Rangers' victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs, the triumph increased the Bruins' National Hockey league lead to four points over the Leafs and Rangers, now tied for second place.

Woody Dumart scored three times for the Bruins, once on a penalty shot. Milt Schmidt counted two goals both in less than two minutes to offset the only Chicago threat of the game. Bill Cowley netted the other, while Bobby Bauer was credited with assists on three of the six Boston scoring plays.

Only 19 Saves for Brimsek.

The Hawks started in slow and ragged fashion. Their passing was so erratic that they couldn't get close enough to take a single shot in the first period. Two minutes of the second elapsed before Frank Brimsek, Boston goalie, had to make his first save of the game.

So ineffective were the Hawks, except in brief spurts, that Brimsek had only 19 saves thruout the game. Mike Karakas of Chicago had to make 45 to prevent even a worse defeat.

Trailing 3 to 0 late in the second period, the Hawks made a bid to gain their first victory over the Bruins since late in the 1937-'38 season by scoring twice within 33 seconds. Seven minutes later Schmidt scored twice for Boston within one minute and eight seconds.

Scores on Penalty Shot.

Chicago's brief bid to win came while Johnny Shewchuk of the Bruins was serving the last of two interference penalties, one called right after the other. On a series of power plays Cully Dahlstrom and Les Cunningham beat Brimsek from close range.

Phil Hergesheimer managed to drive another thru Brimsek from outside the Boston defense in the third period, but the Bruins caged another, by Dumart, in the final minute.

Herb Cain was the first to crack the Chicago defense but after he got inside, he was tripped by Joffre Desilets and the Bruins were awarded a penalty shot, a knee high effort that Woody Dumart fired thru the right side of the Chicago cage to start the scoring, at 5:05.

Deflects Shot Into Net.

After a series of power plays, Bill Cowley provided the second Boston counter by deflecting Bill Hollett's perfect shot into the Chicago cage at 10:44. The play was launched by Red Hamill, who carried over and circled the net before passing out to Hollett. Dumart registered his second goal of the game on Bobby Bauer's pass-out from the right side of Karakas' cage early in the second period. After the resulting face-off, Bill Carse of the Hawks had only Brimsek to beat but after he pulled the goalie out, he missed the open net. Jack Shewchuk then drew a penalty for interfering with Carse.

The Bruins managed to hold firm the first time they played shorthanded but Shewchuk played only a few seconds before returning to the ice for tripping Thoms.

Two Rapid Fire Goals.

The Blackhawks refused to be denied their second opportunity and when Shewchuk again returned to action, Cully Dahlstrom polished off a combination play with Desilets and Les Smith for a score. Then Les Cunningham sped down the left lane in time to take a pass that Desilets shot thru the Boston defense and whacked it thru Brimsek for the sec-

His Chicago defense mates outmaneuvered by a rush of Boston Bruins, Goalie Mike Karakas of the Blackhawks leaves his cage during last night's hockey game in Boston, deflects the puck and falls beneath Gordon Pettinger of the Bruins (No. 11), on face at right. Art Weibe of the Hawks (No. 2) is about to clear the rubber. Karakas was hurt on the play in the second period, but continued his role. Boston won, 6 to 3.

Rangers March On; Defeat Leafs, 4-1, to Tie for Second

New York, Dec. 25 (AP).—The New York Rangers stretched their string of games without a defeat to 12 tonight when they beat the Toronto Maple Leafs 4 to 1 in a National Hockey league game before 12,810 in Madison Square garden. The victory put the Rangers in a tie with the Leafs for second place.

They went into the lead with a goal by Clint Smith after four minutes of play, and held the advantage thruout. Dutch Hiller and Bryan Hextall added goals in the second period and Babe Pratt got the fourth a few minutes before the game ended. It was Pratt's first tally of the season.

Toronto's only goal was scored midway thru the second period by Murph Chamberlain on passes from Bingo Kampman and Gordon Drillon. Summary:

AH! DETROIT WINS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 25 (AP).—Syd Howe scored three goals in the last period tonight, enabling the Detroit Red Wings to achieve their first National Hockey league victory in 11 starts by beating the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 1.

The triumph, witnessed by 4,612, lifted Detroit out of a tie for last place with the New York Americans. Despite the defeat the Canadiens stayed in fourth place as the fifth place Chicago Blackhawks lost to Boston.

The Canadiens got their only score after three minutes of play when the Hector [Toe] Blake took a pass from Paul Haynes, eluded Alex Motter and beat Goalie Cecil [Tiny] Thompson with a smash into the corner.

CLEMSON HEADS FOR DALLAS AND BATTLE IN BOWL

Clemson, S. C., Dec. 25 (AP).—Clemson's football team rode into prominence this season chiefly on the exploits of Banks McFadden, its triple-threat star.

But McFadden, with his peerless punting, brilliant forward passing and incomparable ball-carrying, was not the whole show for the team which left here today for its New Year's day Cotton bowl engagement with Boston college in Dallas, Tex.

Next to McFadden, the chief Tiger was Loyell [Shad] Bryant of Carthage, Tenn. Bryant has been an outstanding ground-gainer for three years. He starred in Clemson's 15 to 7 victory over Navy when McFadden was kept at home by influenza.

Another backfield workhorse was Capt. Joe Payne, 180-pound blocker. He has had a varied career, for he made his letter as an end in his sophomore year and, as a junior, won all-southern recognition at guard.

Three sophomores broke into the regular lineup. They are Joe Blalock, 170-pound end, and George Fritts, 190-pound tackle, and Charlie Timmons, full back.

But McFadden still was the main show. In addition to his other duties, Banks also called the signals.

BOSTON LEAVES TODAY

Newton, Mass., Dec. 25 (AP).—Boston college football players spent Christmas at their homes today, but will gather here tomorrow to start the journey to Dallas, Tex., for the Cotton bowl game with Clemson.

Thirty-nine players, the coaching staff, Boston college officials, and rooters will compose the official party of 100 in its eight car train.

Students and alumni have planned a send-off celebration. The team will arrive at St. Louis Wednesday, and Coach Frank Leahy has scheduled a scrimmage on the St. Louis university field. Additional workouts are planned for Dallas on Friday and Saturday, and with those sessions Leahy is confident the team will attain the physical peak which marked its play in the Holy Cross game.

AMUNDSEN AND KELVYN QUINTETS OPEN TOURNEY

Eight Games Today on Midway.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Kelvyn park and Amundsen High school basketball teams will take the floor at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the Midway fieldhouse for the first game of the University of Chicago's annual prep tournament. From that time until New Year's day—except for a respite Sunday—the youngsters will carry on a steady succession of engagements with a highly cherished championship as their goal.

This tournament is a survival of the national event which was held on the Midway for many years until it was curtailed in 1931 to include only teams of the Chicago area. Since 1935 it has been limited to high schools within the city.

Sixteen Play Today.

The field includes 32 teams. Sixteen of them will perform during the eight games scheduled for this afternoon and evening and the other 16 will fill their first round engagements tomorrow. This afternoon's five games will be run off every hour and the first of the three evening contests will begin at 7 o'clock.

The defending champion, Crane High school, will play its first round game against Senn at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. Austin, the other finalist in last season's tournament, will make its first appearance against Schurz at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Crane Finishes Fast.

The Crane team provided a sensational finish in capturing its title, scoring six baskets in the last 90 seconds to beat Austin, 39 to 31. Tho Crane was a dark horse last year, it will have considerable backing this time because its star forwards, Bernie Golberg and Horace Marshall, will be back again. These boys played a conspicuous part in earning the title for their team. They were two of the most consistent sharpshooters in the tournament.

First round pairings follow:

Today.

1 p. m.—Kelvyn Park vs. Amundsen.
2 p. m.—Farragut vs. Englewood.
3 p. m.—Harrison vs. Lane.
4 p. m.—Harper vs. Foreman.
5 p. m.—Gage Park vs. Von Steuben.
7 p. m.—Washburne vs. Hyde Park.
8 p. m.—Parker vs. Sullivan.
9 p. m.—Du Sable vs. Wells.

Tomorrow.

1 p. m.—Manley vs. Tuley.
2 p. m.—Schurz vs. Austin.
3 p. m.—Waller vs. Lindblom.
4 p. m.—Tilden vs. McKinley.
5 p. m.—Taft vs. Calumet.
7 p. m.—Phillips vs. Marshall.
8 p. m.—Crane vs. Senn.

Four Games Open Fenwick Basket Tourney Tonight

The Fenwick Fathers' club will offer the Rev. Leo C. Gainer trophy as the chief award in the junior prep preseason basketball tournament which opens tonight with four games in Fenwick High school gymnasium, 525 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. Sixteen teams will compete.

The Rev. Gainer award is named in honor of the school's first principal. The Rev. Gainer was head of the Oak Park school when it opened in 1929. He is now in Columbus, O., but will be present Saturday night to present the trophy to the team winning Fenwick's first preseason meet. Tonight's games:

First Round.

7 p. m.—St. Philip, Chicago, vs. Lewis Holy Name, Lockport, Ill.
8 p. m.—Mt. Carmel, Chicago vs. Loyola, Chicago.
9 p. m.—Fenwick, Oak Park vs. De Paul, Chicago.
10 p. m.—St. George, Evanston vs. Weber, Chicago.

8 p. m.—Leo, Chicago vs. St. Ignatious, Chicago.
9 p. m.—St. Rita, Chicago vs. St. Michael, Chicago.
10 p. m.—St. Patrick's, Chicago vs. Holy Trinity, Chicago.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THIS piece is being written on Christmas day. . . . It's still early and the holiday shift hasn't come in to start the production of tomorrow's TRIBUNE. . . . Some of them will go thru the routine of grumbling about having to work on Christmas day. . . . We've been listening to it for a good many years. . . . It's always the same. . . . But it doesn't mean a thing. . . . That sad and martyred look is strictly phony. . . . The boys love the idea of working on a holiday. . . . It gives them something to be unhappy about. . . . Then, too, think of that superior and slightly dramatic feeling when you walk out early on a Christmas eve party, explaining that you've got to be to work early next day. . . . So this column is dedicated to our fellow sufferers who have to work on Christmas day. . . . Congratulations, brothers and sisters. . . . We are a race apart. . . . Somebody has to keep things going, don't they? . . . And apparently it's up to newspaper men, engineers, elevator boys, ship crews, delicatessen employés, actors, professional ice skaters, motion picture operators, waiters, street car conductors, doctors and nurses, and ambulance drivers. . . . Let's quit feeling sorry for ourselves, because we know we enjoy it. . . . And as for youse other guys, how does your head feel? . . . That's one thing we don't have to worry about. . . .

Rogers Hornsby.

Grover Alexander rates Rogers Hornsby the greatest hitter in baseball history. . . . "The first time Rogers faced me," explains Alex, "I said to myself: 'Here's a green kid, so I guess I'll let him hit one.' I laid a fat one down the middle and he hit it over the fence. Then I spend the next 15 years trying to get him out." . . . War or no war, Great Britain is planning to hold its Empire track meet in South Africa in 1941. . . . The Day After Christmas.

'Twas the day after Christmas and all thru the house,
Was a clutter and mess not made by a mouse.
The stockings all hung by the chimney with care,
Were torn and rent and in need of repair.
Mama with her aspirin and I in a pack,
Had just settled back for a much-needed nap.
When out in the front there arose such a clatter,
We sprang from our beds to see what was the matter.
And what to our horrified eyes should appear,
But a dear little hobby horse, minus an ear;
A beautiful dolly well stripped of all charms,
Lying rejected without any arms.
Papers and wrappings strewn over the floor
And packages tied with gay ribbons—no more,
With fingers and movements, so rapid and quick
Children grabbing at toys left by old St. Nick.
We called all the children, each one by name,
Mary, Dickie, Johnnie, and Mame!
Jumping and screaming, they run and they fall,
Neither hearing nor heeding our frantic call.
With feet that are winged, we rush for each one,
Hoping to reach them 'fore more harm is done.
And so the day goes 'mid much noise and din;
Tho peace and good will are also mixed in.

The Night After Christmas.

The gorgeous doll that Santa brought,
Reposes quite alone,
In solitary splendor like
A queen upon her throne.

Her eyes are of a heav'nly blue,
And golden are her locks,
And swanky does she look in one
Of fashion's latest frocks.

And there within her cozy room,
Our darling lies asleep,
She'll never know if you and I
Take just a little peep.

In fond embrace she clasps the doll
She takes each night to bed,
Sweet Jane who once was fair to see,
Whose charms, alas, are fled.

Jane's wardrobe is a sight to see,
She only has one ear,
Her hair has grown so very thin,
She'll soon be bald, I fear.

She can't say mama any more,
I guess she's lost her breath;
Her mistress thinks the new doll's swell,
But loves dear Jane to death.

TONIGHT'S GAMES.

Oregon at Macomb Teachers.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The ninth time De Paul took the lead last night in the battle with the University of Oregon, national collegiate basketball champions, the Blue Demons held on tenaciously for three minutes and victory. Before a holiday crowd of 4,000 De Paul won, 39 to 37, and administered a third defeat to Oregon in nine games this season. Oregon previously had been beaten by Long Lsland university and by Purdue.

All the thrills of last week's De Paul-Southern California tilt, which De Paul lost by the margin of tonight's victory, were renewed. And as the timer's gun sounded almost simultaneously with the whistle of Umpire Bill Haarlow, who called a foul on De Paul's Lou Possner for holding Paul Jackson, it also signaled the start of an argument by Coach Howard Hobson of Oregon that kept the rival teams on the floor for another five minutes.

Referee Wins an Argument.

It was Hobson's contention that the gun and the whistle were not simultaneous, that there must be a second or two remaining and that Oregon should have the right to decline the free throw attempt, take the ball out of bounds, and then conceivably might throw a long goal to tie up the game.

Timer Bill Finn and the officials, Referee Ike Craig and Haarlow, decided that this was an impossibility and ruled the game over. So Jackson threw and missed.

The advantage or disadvantage of declining free throws to keep or gain possession of the ball might be debated after last night's finish. Behind, 39 to 35, with one minute and 50 seconds to play, Oregon declined three consecutive free throws. Then John Dick, Oregon's center, whose seven field goals featured the attack of both teams, batted down Elmer Gainer's pass under the Oregon backboard, picked up the ball, and scored. That eventually was the last tally of the game, and it also called for a review of scoring opportunities passed up.

Loyola Rally Fails.

In the first game of last night's double-header Southern Methodist whipped Loyola, 38 to 34, by virtue of a second half rally that opened up an eight point gap. Paced by Capt. George Wenskus, with five field goals and two free throws, the Ramblers tied the score three times in the first half before taking the lead. They then finished the period in front, 22 to 21.

The Mustangs passed Loyola upon resumption of play and a belated Rambler rally fell two points short with five minutes to play.

No more than four points separated De Paul and Oregon at any time during the game and in the early minutes the teams alternated in scoring, each successively leading by a point. When Capt. Stan Szukala, who had yielded a starting berth to Ted Skrodzki, came into the game near the close of the first half and with De Paul behind, he led an assault with three goals in a row.

Oregon Trails at Half.

These put De Paul ahead, 19 to 15, and in the final minute, after Gainer's penalty shot, Dick hit his third one handed goal for the half time score of De Paul, 19; Oregon, 17.

Dick tied the score on resumption of play and then his one point after being fouled by Skrodzki sent Oregon ahead, 20 to 19. Lou Possner dropped in two penalty shots and then Chet Tollstom hit a long shot to build up a De Paul lead of 23 to 20.

Midway in the half the teams were deadlocked at 27 to 27 before Oregon went ahead on Ted Sarpola's long goal. Oregon lost that advantage but made one last bid by making up a three point deficit and going ahead, 35 to 34.

Gainer flipped in a spectacular one hand goal and he was followed by Possner who dribbled around his guard under the backboard to score. A few seconds later Lou scored one point after being fouled by Red McNeely. Then followed Oregon's refusal to attempt three foul shots, the last goal, and the brief dispute at the conclusion. 10,000 FANS SEE REMARKABLE WIN CHRISTMAS RACE

Defeats Cardinalis at Tropical Park.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 25 (AP).—A holiday crowd of more than 10,000 saw Mrs. L. Palladino's Remarkable sprint to an easy victory today in the $1,200 Christmas purse at Tropical Park.

The 4 year old gelding, second to High One in last week's inaugural, outbroke seven rivals and sped the 6 furlings in 1:10 3-5, only three-fifths of a second off the track record.

Jockey Merle Packer sent Remarkable, a $3.60 to $2 favorite, away like a flash to win by four lengths from P. L. Kelley's Cardinalis. The Circle M ranch's Indian Lodge tired toward the end and finished third.

Ambrose Light, a French 6 year old making his first American start in the silks of Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, ran last all the way.

SUPREME SIR VICTOR.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25 (AP).—Supreme Sir, owned by Mrs. E. L. Martin, today won the $2,000 Christmas handicap at the Fair Grounds track. Patterson Milligan was the winner's jockey.

Jumping Jill, owned by T. H. McCaffrey and ridden by Charles Hanauer, was second and Waxwing, owned by R. A. Coward and ridden by Ovie Scurlock, third.

From a perfect start Waxwing took the lead, followed closely by Sargazo and Be Jabbers, but Supreme Sir, rated fifth, began closing up in the stretch and took the lead 1-16 from home. Jumping Jill also closed fast but lost by a nose. Waxwing was a length behind.

Purple Starts Drill Today for Irish Five

Northwestern university's basketball team will resume practice today in preparation for the first of its two game series with Notre Dame in Patten gymnasium Saturday night. A capacity crowd is expected to see the two teams clash in one of the outstanding basketball rivalries in the middlewest.

The Wildcats disbanded for the holidays after their 42 to 26 victory over Princeton last Thursday. It was the fourth straight conquest for the Purple, whose record also includes victories over Carleton, Washington State, and Pittsburgh. Northwestern has averaged 38 points per game while holding opponents to an average of 25 points.

Two N. U. Sophs Starters.

Northwestern comes up to the Notre Dame game with its first string lineup fairly well established. Two sophomores, Dick Klein, center, and Don Kruger, forwards, have earned starting rôles, along with three veterans, Les Harman, forward, and Capt. Ad Vance and Bob Shepard, guards. This combination has provided a strong offensive punch and a tight defense.

Kruger may find his hold on one of the forward positions strongly contested by several rivals, especially by Dick Brooks, a senior transfer student playing his first year on the varsity. In his first appearance in the lineup against Princeton Brooks led the scoring with 12 points. Brooks, who is from Grand Rapids, is certain to see action against the Irish.

Starting Guards Secure.

Klein and Harman, who complete the front line trio, have showed strong scoring potentialities in the games thus far. Against Washington State, Klein scored 17 points on eight field goals and a free throw while in the Pitt game, Harman rolled up 14 points on six field goals and a pair of free throws.

DON LASH A PAPA IN TIME TO RACE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25 (AP).—Don Lash, Indiana State policeman, will be stepping out as a proud father in the Sugar bowl track meet next Sunday.

Lorenzo Di Benedetto, president of the National A. A. U. and chairman of the Sugar bowl track committee, said he had received a telegram today from Lash of Bloomington, Ind., announcing the event.

"I received a letter from Lash two months ago," said Di Benedetto, "that he would be glad tc participate in the meet here if his baby was born on time. Then this morning I got a telegram from Don saying the baby had arrived and asking me if he was still wanted. Of course I wired him to come on."

Lash was awarded the James E. Sullivan trophy last year as the nation's outstanding athlete.

Lou Zamperni, University of Southern California distance runner, arrived today for the track meet. Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani and others already are on hand.

Name 13 Horses for Santa Anita Handicap

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 25 (AP).—Thirteen horses were nominated today for the New Year's day $10,000 mile handicap at Santa Anita. They are Kayak II., Count d'Or, Specify, Whichee, Healthy, Car't Wait, Magic Hour, Sun Egret, Preceptir II., Journey On, Pernie, Airflame, and Gallant Friar.

20,000 FANS FIND SUGAR BOWL IS NOT BIG ENOUGH

90,000 Seek Tickets to Annual Game.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25 (AP).—The Tulane powerhouse must go into the Sugar Bowl Jan. 1 without knowing how its dynamo is able to function. Bob Kelolgg's ankle, injured in the season's final game, has not been tested under fire. The all-Southeastern half back was held out of the three scrimmages last week which wound up Tulane's rougher preparation for the Texas Aggies.

Kellogg's ankle has responded slowly to treatment. It is pretty definite he will see action against the Aggies, but he must be at his best to help Tulane against the country's No. 1 defensive team. He is needed even more since injury in scrimmage of his understudy, Bob Glass.

He's Tulane's Sparkplug.

Kellogg showed his ability as a money player in the first game. His fifteen yard run deep in Clemson territory helped set up the tying touchdown, which he scored. Then he kicked the extra point which handed Clemson its only defeat of the season.

The 155 pound jitterbug's continued gains were vital in setting up the first touchdown against Auburn. He ran thirty-three yards for the longest advance in the Fordham game and coach Jim Crowley of the Rams called him the only difference between Tulane's first and second teams.

His thirteen yard dash down the sideline set up a touchdown on North Carolina's 4 yard line, and he scored in two plays. He went back into the game later to score Tulane's second touchdown on the first play.

Scores on 106 Yard Run.

In the Mississippi game Kellogg ran 24 yards for Tulane's first touchdown and later returned a kickoff on Columbia with a five yard off tackle dash.

In the L. S. U. game he ran 18 yards to set up the first score; threw a twenty yard pass for the second; hurled a forty yard pass to set up the third which he scored on a three yard end run. Later he was carried off the field while sparking another drive.

It was generally agreed in New Orleans that a stadium more than 50 per cent larger than Tulane's, which seats 70,000, could have been filled for this game.

Approximately 90,000 bought or tried to buy tickets for the game.

TECH, MISSOURI REST

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 25 (AP).—The Georgia Tech and Missouri football teams enjoyed their last easy program today before settling down to work for the Orange bowl game Monday.

Coach Don Faurot gave his Missourians a complete vacation, the boys spending Christmas deep-sea fishing.

Tech loafed, did a little sightseeing in the morning, then donned uniforms for a brisk but light workout, mainly for the benefit of photographers.

Coach W. A. Alexander concentrated on passing and punting, with Johnny Bosch, Bobby Beers, Dick Bates handling the passing.

Nell Cavette, Tech's punting guard, gave a superb demonstration of kicking, once booting the ball over the two story Miami High school gymnasium in a bit of horseplay.

Trojans Seek to Snap L.I.U. Victory String

New York, Dec. 25 [Special].—Southern California's basketball team will boldly challenge Long Island university's 42 game winning streak in the finale of a double-header in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The lanky Trojans are regarded as one of the strongest quintets ever to play in New York.

In the opener, Texas university, champion of the Southwest conference, faces Manhattan college.

L. I. U.'s current victory chain is only one under its all-time record which was snapped at 43 by Stanford in 1936. In that game the Blackbirds fell afoul of Hank Luisetti's phenomenal shooting.

Southern California now comes along with Ralph Vaughn, an Indiana boy who has averaged 17 points per game for the last two seasons. Last year he snapped Luisetti's one-game scoring record with 36 points against U. C. L. A.

The Trojans have bowled over everybody encountered on their eastern jaunt. Their No. 1 accomplishment was a two-point overtime decision over DePaul of Chicago, one of the strongest quintets in the midwest. They also registered victories over Purdue and Notre Dame.

MACOMB MEETS OREGON TONIGHT, STEARNS TO PLAY

Macomb, Ill., Dec. 25 [Special].—Oregon, national collegiate and Pacific coast basketball champion, will meet Macomb Teachers of the Little Nineteen conference here tomorrow night.

Macomb lost to Purdue in its opening game of the season, but came back to defeat Augustana and St. Louis university.

Macomb's starters are Capt. Dick Stearns of Galesburg and Glenn or Junior Willard of Pittsfield, all 5 feet 7 inch forwards; Pete Fulks, 6 feet 1 inch center; Bill Bishop, 6 feet, and Bert Moore of Lake Forest, 5 feet 11 inches, guards.

Stearns will be playing his first game of the year. An injured ankle has kept him out of action.

VOLUNTEERS GO HOLLYWOOD, BUT ONLY FOR A DAY

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 25 (AP).—Santa Claus peeped around an orange tree today and found the University of Tennessee football team.

The Volunteers, on a one day vacation from preparations for their New Year's day game with Southern California in the Rose Bowl, spent Christmas afternoon at a party staged à la Hollywood.

Vic for Autographs.

The host was Clarence Brown, movie director, and the scene was his ranch near Hollywood, located in a section as thick with picture people as it is with oranges and grapefruit.

At last reports, the football team and the admiring movie folk were tied at 64 autographs apiece, with six turkeys, a platter of cranberry sauce and three dozen hot biscuits remaining in the final period.

Trojans Take Day Off.

Santa Claus was having quite a time, too, searching for stockings to fill. He found one that was nice looking, but it had Carole Lombard in it.

Brown, the host, is not the usual motion picture type eager to bask in the glory of a championship football aggregation. He played football for Tennessee years ago, and has been leader of a campaign to get the Vols into the Rose Bowl for many years.

Southern California's Trojans also rested today, observing the festivities at home or with friends. They will return to work tomorrow.

Bruins Whip Hawks, 6 to 3; 13th Straight

ond Chicago score, only 33 seconds after the first.

Having their lead reduced in such speedy fashion, the Bruins counter rallied when Milt Schmidt scored twice in one minute and eight seconds. Bobby Bauer received assists on both plays.

Midway in the third period the Hawks put on an efficient passing attack deep in the Bruins' territory. Brimsek managed to block three shots but was unable to reach the five-footer that Phil Hergesheimer lashed at him after taking Carse's pass from the left boards.

With six minutes remaining, the Blackhawks threw five forwards into action but they were unable to get organized and Wiebe and Seibert returned to their defense posts for the last three minutes of the game. The visitors pressed the Bruins hard during that stretch but just before the bell, Schmidt broke out of a scrimmage near his net, outskated the Hawks to their zone, where he fed a pass that Dumart converted into his third goal of the game.

OPENING WINDY CITY GAMES PUT BACK A WEEK

The Windy City Basketball league, originally scheduled to open tonight, will start the 1949 schedule next Tuesday evening. The postponement is due to remodeling work in St. Philip's gymnasium.

The La Salle Cavaliers quintet is the latest to be granted a franchise in the circuit. Led by Capt. Ray Meyers, former Notre Dame star, the Cavaliers include Paul du Charme, also of last season's Notre Dame team; Bill O'Brien of Loyola, Bob Meyers, former Maroon; Wayne Zanders of Drake, Jim Anderson of Augustana, Bill Mangan of Marquette, Eddie Connel, and Jack Salzman.

The Windy City franchises also were given to the Frankie Harmons, defending champions, representing Petrones and the Collegians, Negro five. The circuit will play a double header of league contests every Tuesday and Thursday nights in St. Philip's gymnasium.

TEMPLE DEFEATS OKLAHOMA, 42-36, FOR 1ST VICTORY

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 25 (AP).—Rallying in the second half, Temple's basketball team won its first game of the season tonight by beating the University of Oklahoma, 42 to 36.

A crowd of 4,000 saw the Sooners, behind 18-10 at half time, pull up, 18 to 17, shortly after the start of the second half. Successive field goals by Angelo Musi, Billy Bechtloff and Howard Kahn gave Temple a seven-point lead.

West Decides on Air Raids Against East

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 25 (AP).—Aerial football, as emphasized in the southwest, is expected to play an important part in the strategy of the west in the all-star game against the east here New Year's day.

Western coaches, Biff Jones and Orin Hollinbery, who ordinarily hew to the hit and run type of game, disclosed in today's practice at Palo Alto their squad will be prepared to pass with abandon.

With alternating Left Half Backs Kay Eakin of Arkansas and Leroy Zimmerman of San Jose State, starting the plays with forward passes, the boys concentrated on laterals.

Eastern Team Drills.

Hollinbery explained: "Ordinarily I'm not in favor of letting go of the ball too much, but these players all hang onto it as if they were wearing gloves covered with fish hooks."

Sam Schwartzkopf, 202 pound right tackle from Nebraska; Hampton Pool, giant Stanford guard, and Don Crumbaker, Kansas State end, earned coaching commendations during the Christmas day workout.

The eastern team engaged in a brisk drill at Berkeley. It included a short scrimmage and perfection of timing. Andy Kerr, co-coach with Bernie Bierman, disagreed vigorously with statements from the western mentors that the rival squads are fairly even in weights.

"I'll bet money the west squad outweighs us a lot," he said. "We're positive of it, but it doesn't worry us a bit. Jack Dempsey weighed 188 pounds and licked men weighing 50 pounds more. We'll give away 10 pounds to the man and still take care of ourselves."

Brock Stands Out.

The eastern leaders, making a new check on field goal kicking possibilities, discovered that 12 of the 22 man squad were experienced in this department.

The headmen were stumped, however, when both centers, John Haman of Northwestern and Steve Andrako of Ohio State, volunteered. Their services were turned down because as Kerr explained: "We don't want two centers in the game at the same time."

Half Backs Lou Brock of Purdue and George Stirnweiss of North Carolina loomed out in the ball carrying activities with Willard Perdue, rangy Duke end, shining as a pass receiver.

BLUES, GRAYS SCRIMMAGE

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 25 (AP).—Keen rivalry between north and south drew members of respective all-star teams away from today's Christmas day pleasantries for two hard scrimmage sessions.

Forward pass rehearsal in opposing camps gave promise the second annual Blue and Gray game Saturday will be a wide open affair.

The north's formidable ends—Esco Sarkkinen of Ohio State, Harlan Gustafson of Penn, Dick Grefe of Northwestern, and Carl Tomasello of Scranton—put wide grins on the faces of the Blue team coaches, Carl Snavely of Cornell and Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, with their fancy pass catching.

On the opposite side of the city, Coaches Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt and Josh Cody of Florida also had fine end material for the pass receiving jobs—Ken Kavanaugh of Louisiana State, Bill Bailey of Duke, Ned McDonald of Texas, and Ogden Baur of L. S. U. Young Bussey, also of L. S. U., did the passing.

150 Invitations Issued for Butler Relays March 16

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 25 (AP).—Track Coach Ray Sears of Butler university announced today the eighth annual Butler indoor relays would be held in the university fieldhouse March 16. About 150 invitations to participate have been issued to colleges, universities, and individual stars of the central states and east. Sears said more than $1,000 worth of gold trophies would be awarded.

CHICAGO RIFLE TEAMS PLACE IN NATIONAL MEET

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25 [Special].—Three rifle teams in the Chicago area placed among the top 10 entrants in the National Rifle association junior league matches just concluded, with the American Legion juniors of Quincy leading Illinois teams with 900 points, which puts it in sixth place. The Harold Taylor post, No. 47, Sons of the American Legion team of Chicago is in ninth place with 750 points, and next is another Quincy squad, the girls' team of Quincy High school, with 720.

In second place in division C is the first team of the Highland Park High school, with 380 points.

CHURCH-CHAPEEN QUINTET TO PLAY BURTONS TONIGHT

The Church-Chapeen team will make its debut in the Chicago Basketball league tonight, meeting the Burton Dixie quintet in the feature contest of a three-game card at 9 o'clock in the Queen of Angels Guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue.

In the first game at 8 o'clock, Northtown Currency Exchange will meet the Fighting Irish, and in the night's final, undefeated Franklin Park A. C. plays the Ahepa All-Stars at 10 o'clock.

Reavley Ready to Rejoin Marquette Five Today

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 25 [Special].—Jimmy Reavley, sophomore guard from Milwaukee, who has been out with injuries for three weeks, is expected to be back at guard in the Marquette university basketball lineup tomorrow when the Hilltoppers cut short their Christmas vacation to begin training for next Saturday night's game here with the University of Iowa. Wisconsin will meet Nebraska on the same program in the Milwaukee auditorium.

Oma Arrives; Out to Repeat Allen Conquest

Lee Oma, Detroit light heavyweight, arrived yesterday for his 10 round return bout against Altus Allen in the Coliseum tomorrow. In an earlier meeting Oma surprised by scoring a one round knockout over the 1939 international Golden Gloves heavyweight champion. It was Lee's third consecutive Chicago victory, Ernie Valente and Al Globe being previous victims. Since the Allen achievement the Detroit puncher has added Bob Ray to his list of victims.

Allen Hopes for Revenge.

Allen continued workouts in Trafton's gymnasium by sparring with Orlando Trotter. He failed to be disturbed over the stir Oma's arrival occasioned. Altus, who boxed with Johnny Paycheck last week, has been showing old form in gymnasium workouts and this has given him assurance that the embarrassment at the hands of Oma was an accident. He believes he will obtain revenge.

Fritzie Zivic and Milt Aron also worked out yesterday in preparation for a 10 round featured contest on the Coliseum card. The match has taken on added importance since Zivic was named No. 1 welterweight contender by the National Boxing association on Saturday. Fans believe he is endangering this position against Aron, but the Pittsburgh fighter isn't worrying. Fritzie is confident he will knock out Aron "because Milt can be hit and any one I can hit will hit the canvas."

Postpone Christmas Dinner.

Pete Lello, third leading lightweight challenger, and Eddie Lander, aggressive little west side slugger, also trained yesterday, the lads postponing a Christmas dinner until after the fight. Lello appeared in excellent condition in a two round drill with Bob Jarrell.

Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois boxing board say they are sure Lander is one of the strongest foes to face Lello.

Some observers question Lander's right to meet Pete because Eddie looked unimpressive while being held to an eight round draw by Nick Castiglione in Chicago Stadium Dec. 8. They also recall that Lander previously had lost two decisions to Jimmy Perrin, southern featherweight.

In Lander's favor, however, is the fact that he hammered out a victory over Nick Camarata, New Orleans, La., lightweight, last July 24. This accomplishment was achieved after Camarata had conquered Lello twice last year.

CHICAGO'S PREP STARS LOSE ON COAST, 33 TO 12

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 25 [Exclusive].—The Los Angeles prep All-Stars defeated a picked Chicago team, 33 to 12, before 20,000 today. The invaders scored in the third and fourth quarters. Don Griffin passed for 8 yards to Pete Schmidt for the first Chicago touchdown. The second came on a 78 yard pass play when Griffin tossed to Bob Wallace, who ran better than 60 yards for the score. Both attempts for the extra point were blocked.

Los Angeles jumped into an early lead, driving sixty-eight yards in 11 plays, following with another drive of forty-four shortly thereafter. Chicago threatened once in the first half when a Los Angeles fumble was recovered on the 18 yard line but four passes by Griffin were incomplete and the Los Angeles took over.

Mickey McArdle of Los Angeles Manual Arts High school was the individual star of the game, scoring two of the victors' touchdowns and passing for another.

Patty Berg's Mother Dies on Christmas Day at 49

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 25 (AP).—Mrs. H. L. Berg, 49, mother of Patty Berg, former women's national golf champion, died unexpectedly today in the midst of preparations for a family Christmas day observance.

PREP FOOTBALL STAR LOSES LEG, BUT FINDS CAREER

Scholarship Winner Plans to Be Bone Specialist.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 25 [Special].—The leg he lost by amputation as a result of an injury sustained in a football game enabled Edwin [Rip] Collins, 18 year old prep school star, to decide today on his life's career. He will accept a scholarship and study to become a bone specialist.

Edwin Collins.

Rip, smiling told all about it shortly after he left St. Michael's hospital here, and hobbled on crutches into his parents' home in nearby Kearny, for a Christmas weekend celebration with his father, mother, and sister, Virginia, 14 years old.

He's Filled With Ambition.

"I didn't know just what sort of a career to prepare for before this happened," Rip said, sitting in the kitchen as Mrs. Collins bustled with preparations for a turkey dinner.

"But now I know. I made up my mind in the hospital, for I had plenty of time to talk about it to bone specialists and doctors after my leg was amputated three weeks ago. I'm going to try to become a bone specialist—a good specialist, like those who helped me—and some day I'm going to help other boys. I'm going to study very hard."

Mrs. Collins wiped tears from her eyes and smiled. His sister hugged him and his father, Edwin Collins Sr., Kearny policeman, nodded.

"We'll all help you," they chorused

Receives Scholarship.

Rip declared that the first thing he is going to do in furthering his ambition is to accept the scholarship offered him by the Rev. James F. Kelley, president of Seton Hall college, South Orange.

"O, and I want to say this," Rip added. "I haven't any grudge against football. I feel in the pink and I'll find some sport that I can still play. I'm very happy and it's swell being at home on Christmas."

Rip received many Christmas cards including one from Don Herring, Princeton football star, who lost a leg by amputation as a result of similar injuries sustained the past season. Herring already had written an encouraging letter to the prep school star and then visited him. Today Rip said he'd answered Don's note and that he expected to correspond regularly with the Princeton student.

MILWAUKEE NOW ON A 'PAY AS YOU GO' BASIS

City Soon Will Be Entirely Free of Debt.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 25 [Special.]—Milwaukee is now on a pay as you go basis. Its bonded debt is diminishing, and in two or three years will be entirely canceled, making Milwaukee the only first class city in America free from debt.

The city's proposed 1940 budget is $33,223,556, or $706,564 smaller than last year's. A final public hearing on it will be held on Wednesday in the city council chamber. There is a reduction of almost $25,000,000 in the assessed valuation.

"The reductions, altho not large, are significant," said City Controler William H. Wendt, "because they show a definite check on the tendency to rise."

Proposed Tax Rate.

The tax rate on the basis of the proposed budget is $25.33 a thousand, a reduction of 6 cents from last year's rate.

"The board of estimates has done well in holding the tax rate to the figure it did," said the controler. "The real reduction in the city tax rate will not come until 1942 or 1943, when the public debt amortization fund will cancel the diminishing bonded debt and will end all payments for bonds and interest. It will make Milwaukee unique in America.

"Diversion of interest payments into a special fund," Wendt added, "will take care of all permanent improvements without extra taxes."

The amortization fund was created in 1923 from interest paid by property owners on deferred instalments for street improvement assessments. The fund now contains $8,750,000 invested in city of Milwaukee bonds and tax certificates and United States bonds.

Milwaukee has not issued any general obligation bonds since 1932, when the depression caught it with a public debt of more than 52 million dollars. Economy has reduced the public debt so that, after the current tax has been levied for bonds maturing in 1940, the total will be $18,716,500 outstanding.

Determined to Wait.

Application of the amortization fund now would cut the public debt almost in half, but Controller Wendt and the council finance committee are determined to maintain the fund intact until it can serve the complete purpose for which it was created and wipe out the debt by 1942 or 1943.

During the last year Milwaukee has completed the process of transformation to a strictly cash basis. From the time of the city's incorporation, taxes were levied to pay bills at the end of the year in which they were incurred.

Under the operations of the tax adjustment law, sponsored by the controller's office, the city in the course of the last dozen years has assumed an extra year's expenses. While levying taxes for money already spent, additional taxes were assessed each year to place some of the city on a cash basis, so the present budget appropriations are for next year's expenses instead of last year's.

1,000 LIBRARIANS WILL CONVENE IN CITY TOMORROW

Present day problems in keeping libraries free from outside political control or other outside influences will be a major issue at the annual midwinter conference of the American Library association. The conference will begin tomorrow in the Drake hotel and will continue thru Friday. More than 1,000 are expected to attend.

Forrest Spaulding, chief city librarian of Des Moines, Ia., and a member of the library association's executive board, will address members of the association on this subject. Spaulding was instrumental in preparing the "Bill of Rights" which keeps the Des Moines library free from political control and on a strictly nonpartisan basis.

Other speakers will discuss the dangers of censorship and propaganda to libraries in the United States and in other nations of the world.

FIRE DESTROYS HALF OF A LISLE BUSINESS BLOCK

A fast spreading fire of unknown origin swept half a block of the business section of Lisle, Ill., yesterday, destroying the village post office and a grocery store, barber shop and beauty parlor. Firemen from Lisle, Downers Grove and Naperville fought the blaze for more than two hours before it was extinguished.

Damage was estimated at $50,000 by Capt. Carl A. Simmons of the Downers Grove fire department. Capt. Simmons said the fire, which started at noon, would have destroyed the entire business section of Lisle if the wind had been from the east instead of from the west.

An investigation has been started to determine whether the fire started in the post office or in the grocery store. The buildings were on Railroad avenue, Lisle's business street.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

August Paukstis, 65 years old, of 5616 South Nottingham avenue, was killed yesterday by a Chicago and Alton railroad train as he walked down the tracks in Summit.

CHICAGO RELIEF ROLL DECLINING; NOVEMBER TOTAL LOW FOR A YEAR

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, reported yesterday that relief rolls are diminishing. He pointed to the monthly CRA report for November, which showed that relief had been given to 229,305 persons. This is the smallest relief load since a year ago November.

Lyons attributed the decrease chiefly to a rise in private employment and to the transfer of additional reliefers to WPA jobs. During November the average monthly relief allotment for each case was raised from $23.87 to $29.87. The higher amount, which will be granted during January, was made possible by a $1,033,000 loan from the city council to the CRA.

Lyons said November was the fifth consecutive month in which the city's relief load was lower than that of the preceding month. There were 269,019 reliefers in June, 250,967 in July, 246,475 in August, 241,882 in September, and 232,363 in October.

MARK SHANKS, REALTY DEALER, IS DEAD AT 67

Mark Shanks, a west side business leader and real estate man, died yesterday at his home, 139 North Mayfield avenue. He was 67 years old. Mr. Shanks was a former president of the West Town Chamber of commerce, the Midwest Athletic club, and the Standard Ice Cream company. He was a member of the finance committee for the building of the Medinah club building, now the Chicago Towers. Long prominent in Masonic circles, he was past commander and last surviving charter member of the Austin commandery of Knights Templar. He leaves his widow, Alice; a daughter, Lillian; and a sister, Minnie. Services will be at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 124 Madison street, Oak Park.

2 INDIANA CITIES TO END POLLUTION OF LAKE IN 1940

Two of the northwest Indiana communities which have been accused of polluting Lake Michigan with improperly treated and untreated sewage, will complete disposal plants during the coming year, it was announced yesterday. Two others which have encountered financial difficulties have no immediate prospects of building treatment plants.

Gary's $4,760,000 project will be ready for service about July 1, according to City Engineer W. P. Cottingham. It has been financed by a 45 per cent Public Works administration grant and a local bond issue. A similar plant is expected to be put into operation at Hammond next fall, according to officials there.

East Chicago and Whiting have met obstacles in financing their projects. Mayor James T. McNamara of Whiting said yesterday the PWA had sidetracked that community's application for an $800,000 grant.

More than 200 protests by East Chicago citizens killed a proposed bond issue there, City Attorney Loyd Cohen said. The town cannot immediately finance a plant, he said.

Policeman Michael Whitty Dies of a Heart Ailment

Policeman Michael Whitty, 5650 Washington boulevard, died of a heart ailment in St. Anne's hospital early today. He was 61 years old, and had been on the force 20 years. The service was not continuous, having been broken by a venture into business after which he rejoined the force. Policeman Whitty worked out of the Central station, but was assigned to the city controler's office. He is survived by two daughters, Mary and Anne. His wife, Helen, died two weeks ago.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Harry L. Paddon.

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Dec. 25 (AP).—Dr. Harry L. Paddon, 59 years old, senior colleague of Sir Wilfred Grenfell, Labrador's famed medical missionary, died in Bryn Mawr hospital Christmas eve of a heart ailment. For the last 20 years Dr. Paddon had been in charge of the hospital, school and industrial work at Northwest river and Indian harbor, Labrador. Each winter he patroled 600 miles of Labrador's coast with dog teams. In the summer the route was covered by boat. He also carried his work 150 miles inland, administering to Eskimos, Indians, and whites alike. Dr. Paddon was born in England. His widow and three of his four sons were at the bedside.

Benjamin S. Buckmaster.

Funeral services for Benjamin S. Buckmaster, manager of the Pfanstiehl Chemical company of Waukegan, who died suddenly Sunday, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Presbyterian church in Highland Park. Mr. Buckmaster, who was 46 years old, lived at 121 North Linden avenue, Highland Park.

Buckmaster was formerly a resident of Kenosha, Wis., and was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He was a junior lieutenant in the navy during the war and was assigned to a submarine chaser.

Surviving are his widow, Lila; a daughter, Lila Jean, and a son, Albert. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

Robert Stanton Brewster.

New York, Dec. 25 (AP).—Robert Stanton Brewster, 64 years old, president of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate association, and leader of the movement to save opera at the "Met" for the public, died last night. Brewster was vice president and trustee of the Seamen's Bank for Savings, treasurer of the Jekyll Island club, a winter colony off the coast of southern Georgia, and director of several insurance companies. A native of Cazenovia, N. Y., he is survived by his widow, the former Mabel M. Tremain, of Auburn, N. Y., and three children.

Mrs. Lulu F. Perry.

Word was received yesterday that Mrs. Lulu Faulkner Perry, formerly of Chicago, died Sunday night in her home in Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Perry, who was 78 years old, was a sister of the Misses Georgine and Elizabeth Faulkner, founders of the Faulkner School for Girls, at 4746 Dorchester avenue. Surviving are Mrs. Perry's husband, Frank, a retired electrical engineer, and in addition to the Misses Faulkner, four other sisters, Mrs. Ann Obendorfer, Mrs. Sue Reed, and Mrs. Harriet Bissell, all of Chicago, and Mrs. Emma Chapman of New York.

Mrs. Mary C. Duffy.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary C. Duffy will be conducted at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at St. Peter Canisius church. Mrs. Duffy was the widow of Edward L. Duffy, who was an officer of Local 130 of the Plumbers' union for 40 years. She died Saturday at the age of 62. Her home was at 1609 North Central avenue. Surviving are a son, Edward J. Duffy, and two daughters, Mrs. Vernetius Curran and Mrs. Florence Doyle.

Boy Killed by Street Car when Playing Leapfrog

A brief game of leapfrog resulted fatally last night for Walter Borgman, 17 years old, 7130 Sangamon street. At 94th street and Vincennes avenue he and a relative, Robert Borgman, about the same age, of 7627 Sangamon street, paused long enough to leap over each other's back. The impetus of Walter's leap carried him upon the car tracks just as a Vincennes avenue street car came up. He was knocked down and was pronounced dead at the Little Company of Mary hospital. Walter was one of 10 children of Frank Borgman, a machine operator.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TRADE HOLDING AT HIGH LEVEL IN MIDDLE WEST

Holiday Buying Is Heavier than Year Ago.

Except for minor interruptions, business and industry have continued at the high levels toward which they began ascending in September, George L. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, reported yesterday in a survey of conditions in the seventh federal reserve district.

George J. Schaller.

Promising much larger gains when the full extent of the Christmas shopping has been tabulated, the survey noted an increase of 7 per cent over the 1938 period in sales of district department stores during the first two weeks of December.

Other sources have estimated holiday business at the largest volume since the depression of 1929 forced curtailment in spending.

Department Store Sales Gain.

Schaller's report, covering operations in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, and Wisconsin, showed daily average department store sales in November topped those of October by 3 per cent.

"The generally high level of seventh district industrial output was maintained in November," Schaller's survey found. "Volume of new orders in many lines, notably steel, has declined from the exceptionally heavy autumn business, but production activity continued for the most part high into December."

The survey noted that altho steel industry operations had declined somewhat from the high levels of preceding months, the mills are still operating at exceptionally high rates. Steel casting operations were at a faster tempo, reflecting the increased use of railway equipment operations.

Paper Mills Near Capacity.

Paper mills in the district continued production at close to capacity levels in November, altho shipments registered a small decline. Normal seasonal factors curtailed activity somewhat in furniture and stove factories, but both industries still operated at rates well above those of November, 1938, the survey showed.

Substantiating optimistic reports from many sources, Schaller said: "Demand for automobiles appeared to be well sustained, and some producers are reported to have heavy backlogs still to be worked off."

The costly labor controversy which resulted in discontinuance of automobile production for several weeks at plants of the Chrysler corporation was credited with responsibility for a declining employment trend in November.

Altho several important industries increased their employment rolls, there was an aggregate decline of 2 per cent in pay rolls in the district between mid-October and mid-November, the report showed. There was a fractional percentage decline in number of workers employed.

Revival Blow in Antitrust Bill Charged

Terming it a threat to continued business recovery, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York yesterday condemned a bill for revision of antitrust procedure which will be introduced at the forthcoming session of congress.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Representative Samual Hobbs of Alabama, both Democrats, provides additional penalties for violation of antitrust laws without making any changes in provisions of the law defining what constitutes, violations, the bank's publication said.

"The disturbing aspect of the bill is not that it provides drastic penalties for violation of the law," the bank's publication said. "Criminals and persons who violate penal statutes of the usual variety should be punished.

Charges Law Is Vague.

"In the case, however, of business practices with respect to which the prohibitions of the statutes have not been clearly defined, these drastic penalties [one year's imprisonment or $5,000 fines] would be visited upon corporations and individuals who had no means of knowing, until a court and jury had decided the question, whether a given act was or was not a violation of the antitrust laws."

Lists Business Handicaps.

On the point of impeding business, the bank said of the proposed law:

"The enactment of drastic new penalties for violation of the antitrust laws would either produce an even more destructive paralysis of business initiative, together with costly and confusing changes in present practices which new courts and new judges may conceivably hold to be improper, or, as an alternative, cause business to seek protection from criminal prosecution by means of consent decrees."

NEW HAVEN HAS $191,225 PROFIT FOR NOVEMBER

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company disclosed yesterday that its operations last month showed a net income of $191,225, which compared with a deficit of $305,101 for November, 1938. It was the third month this year that a net income was reported.

For the 11 months ending Nov. 30, 1939, the deficit after charges on the present capital structure was $3,224,426 compared with a deficit of $11,538,268 for the same period in 1938.

Net operating income of the Santa Fe railway for November was $1,874,599, a decrease of $369,779 compared with November, 1938, the road reported yesterday. However, the figure was a substantial increase over the $1,152,856 reported for the 1937 month.

PREDICTS NEW AVIATION PEAK IN COMING YEAR

Aviation is certain to reach new peaks next year, as it has this year, Carleton Putnam, president of the Chicago and Southern Air Lines, predicted yesterday. Reporting travel over his company's system in 1939 will surpass that of any other year by 34½ per cent, he forecast a 60 per cent increase for 1940.

"War has no monopoly on the production line," he said in discussing the vast increase in 1939 airplane output. "The factories are humming with commercial orders."

Business Bits

Promotions for two men long in the service of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation were announced yesterday by George W. Mason, president of the corporation, which manufactures automobiles, refrigerators, heating equipment, and other products.

Howard A. Lewis, treasurer for the last 10 years, was named vice president, and C. V. Egan, assistant treasurer for the last 12 years, was made treasurer. The corporation maintains headquarters and plants in Detroit, and operates motor plants in Kenosha, Wis., and elsewhere.

Newly elected governors and members of the National Association of Securities Dealers' advisory council will hold their first meeting on Jan. 22 and 23 in Washington, it was announced yesterday. Association officers will be appointed at the meeting, which will be attended by three Chicagoans: Francis A. Bonner, Bonner & Co.; William A. Fuller of Fuller, Cruttenden & Co., and Louis J. Gross of Paul H. Davis & Co.

Admission of the East Side Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, to membership in the federal reserve system was announced by George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. The East Side bank has deposits of about $1,070,000. Charles L. Greenwold is chairman and Nicholas J. Bohling is president.

D. J. Coyne Jr. and George E. Clark have been nominated by petition for election as directors of the Chicago Mercantile exchange.

EX DIVIDEND DATES.

What does ex dividend mean? I have always been confused about ex dividend dates. How is the ex dividend date determined?—S. K.

Answer: Ex dividend means without dividend. When a stock is said to be trading ex dividend, the purchaser of that stock will not receive the dividend recently declared.

When directors of a corporation vote to pay a dividend a date is fixed on which the list of stockholders entitled to the payment will be compiled from the company's stock transfer books. This is known as the record date.

The purchaser of stock on the record date would not be entitled to the dividend because his name would not be entered on the books at once. It normally takes from one to two days for the clerical routine of completing a stock transfer on the records. Thus the stock sells ex dividend a day or more preceding the record date. This gives the company time to complete the compilation of stockholders who are to receive the payment.

On the New York Stock exchange actual delivery of stock certificates ordinarily is made two full business days after the transaction. All corporations whose securities are listed on the exchange have transfer offices in New York City. Thus, for a transfer to be recorded on the record date the transaction would have to be made two full business days earlier.

The New York Stock exchange, therefore, ruled that the ex dividend date shall be the first full business day preceding the record date. Thus, transactions made on the ex dividend date and thereafter are too late to be entered on the transfer books on the record date.

If the record date is a full or half holiday, the ex dividend date is the second preceding full business day.

The same rule on ex dividend dates is used by the New York Curb exchange for stocks transferred in the New York City area. In the case of the curb, however, not all the companies listed have New York transfer offices. Therefore, for stocks transferred outside New York City, the ex dividend date is the full business day preceding the "equivalent New York record date."

This equivalent date is determined by the exchange and is the last business day upon which securities mailed from New York City will reach the outside transfer office by regular mail in time to permit the execution of the transfer on the record date.

In "cash" transactions in which the securities are delivered on the same day of the contract, the ex dividend date is the full business day following the record date.

Wallace Maps New Plans to Conserve Soil

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25 (AP).—Declaring that American farm land was wearing out faster than it was being restored, Secretary Wallace today announced changes in agriculture department programs designed to increase their effectiveness in conserving soil and forestry resources.

Immediately affected are programs of the agricultural adjustment administration, the farm security administration, the soil conservation service, the forest service, the bureau of agricultural economics and the extension service.

Thru programs operated by these units, farmers will be asked—and in some cases required—to place greater emphasis upon conservation.

Diversification Encouraged.

One important change in the program of the farm security administration—which extends farm purchase and rehabilitation loans to tenants and sharecroppers—provides that no loan will be approved if the applicant grows only one cash crop. This policy, Wallace said, is expected to "popularize" the practice of crop rotation and diversification in single crop areas, particularly in the cotton south.

Recognizing that insecurity of tenure leads to misuse of land, because tenant farmers can afford to conserve soil resources only when they have an interest in the land extending over several years, the secretary directed the FSA to intensify efforts to help its borrowers obtain longer term and better written farm leases. This agency also was instructed to make grants, whenever feasible, to low income farmers for conservation work.

Requirements More Strict.

Wallace instructed local AAA committees to "require farmers to meet stricter soil conservation performance requirements before granting credit for soil building practices"—the basis on which conservation payments are made.

The soil conservation service was directed to work more closely with other agriculture department units in supplying technical guidance and where possible in lending equipment to farmers for conservation work. The bureau of agricultural economics and the extension service were asked to place greater emphasis on conservation in their educational and promotional activities.

TWO OF CHICAGO PIONEER LUMBER CONCERNS MERGE

Two lumber companies, whose histories are in themselves a history of the part Chicago has played in the development of the lumber industry, yesterday announced their merger.

The J. O. Nessen Lumber company and the Marsh and Truman Lumber company will henceforth be operated under the name of the latter concern.

J. O. Nessen, former lumberjack and pikeman, who saved his money, bought one lumber schooner and finally a fleet, was the founder of the company bearing his name.

The Marsh and Truman company was originally founded in 1864. It furnished most of the lumber for the Marshall Field Wholesale building.

November Mortgage Loans 28 Million in Chicago Area

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—Home mortgages recorded by all types of lenders in the district served by the Federal Home Loan bank of Chicago during November numbered 8,348 and amounted to $28,115,000, the federal home loan bank board reported today.

Exchanges Resume Business Today

Most of the world's security and commodity exchanges, all of which were closed yesterday for the observance of Christmas, will resume operations today. While markets in the United States will get back on regular business schedules, British exchanges will remain suspended for the "boxing day" holiday. The Toronto stock exchange will be the only Canadian market to reopen, others prolonging the recess until tomorrow.

HEAVY INDUSTRY HAS BIG ORDERS TO START 1940

Employment Expected to Remain High.

New York, Dec. 25 (AP).—Heavy industry, backbone of the 1939 business advance, will enter the new year with a large reserve of unfilled orders, business analysts reported today. Some estimate the backlog of machine and equipment makers is the greatest since 1930 or 1929.

The reserve is expected to keep employment in the heavy industries at a relatively high level for some time to come despite recent indications of a decline in new orders following the autumn war buying rush.

Aircraft and shipbuilding industries, the boom times of 1939, were estimated by certain analysts to have a backlog of approximately $1,200,000,000, about evenly divided between them. Airplane and engine manufacturers are expected to increase pay rolls further as they hit a faster production pace.

Foreign Orders Boost Backlog.

Additional foreign orders since the removal of the United States arms embargo have expanded the backlogs of the busy aircraft industry. Douglas, in the Los Angeles area, has been reported dickering with the British on a $40,000,000 order for bombers.

Also rated as strong props for the first half of 1940, at least, are:

[1] Electrical manufacturing, with indications of a 10 per cent increase in 1940 budget outlays for power generating equipment.

[2] Automobile production, forecast in trade circles as likely to remain at a high level thru the first three months of 1940.

[3] The steel industry, believed to have substantial unfilled orders despite the record breaking tonnage output attained on the autumn upswing.

Gain in Building Forecast.

[4] Construction, bolstered by a rising trend in residential building and factory expenditures.

[5] Machine tools, supported by active foreign inquiry from warring nations.

[6] Rail equipment, with a backlog described as large enough to keep most manufacturers busy until late spring.

Textiles and other light industries supplying the housewife and the man in the street with consumer goods are rated more doubtful. They were swamped with war buying in September and October as dealers scrambled to increase inventories.

HOPKINS WARNS OUTPUT NEEDS LARGER DEMAND

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins warned today that higher domestic or greatly expanded foreign demand will be necessary to maintain present high levels of production during 1940.

Increasing production, the secretary said in a year-end statement, had not been balanced by a correspondingly high rate of utilization of goods produced, resulting in some accumulation of inventories.

At the same time the secretary said that 1939 was a better year than 1938 "in all sectors of the economy—industry, trade, and agriculture," but cautioned that "we cannot rely upon destruction abroad to create a demand for goods which, in the proper sense, can be fostered here with advantage to all."

To Holders of 3% Refunding Bonds of The Chicago and Alton Railroad Company.

The Alton Railroad Company has determined to pay on January 5, 1940, six months' interest on the Refunding Mortgage Bonds of The Chicago and Alton Railroad Company.

Such payment will be made on January 5, 1940, to holders of coupon bonds upon presentation and surrender of coupons due October 1, 1938, accompanied by appropriate ownership certificates at the office of The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, No. 2 Wall Street, New York City.

Checks for interest accrued to October 1, 1938, on registered bonds will be mailed to holders of such bonds of record at the close of business January 2, 1940.

*Based on 20 months. Other amounts from $10 to $300 in proportion. 1 to 20 months to pay.

Save the Difference

Commonwealth's charges are less on all loans than the maximum permitted by law. Our monthly rates of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES and CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THE SAME RATE. Of course persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter or telephone will receive immediate attention.

Local Loan Gives You SERVICE

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because employed people, young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends, and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone, so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.
